GEORGIANS TO PAY $2,000,000 PRICE FOR DIXIE COMPANY

Stockholders Approve Detailed Plan for Reorganization of Atlantic Ice & Coal; Values of Stock Are Increased.

BUYERS DISCLOSE NEW SHARE SETUP

Present Officers, Directors To Continue Operation of Business; Main Office To Remain Here.

Plans for the reorganization of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company with the controlling ownership passing from the Pennsylvania Gas & Electric Company to a group of Georgia investors, were approved yesterday at a meeting of the stockholders.

Following action of the stockholders, prices on the company's various classes of stock rose from $1 to $5, according to advices received from local security dealers late yesterday afternoon.

Name of the concern will be changed to the Atlantic Company, denoting its expansion in fields other than ice and coal, notably in the brewing industry, officials announced.

For the purchase price of $2,000,000, to be paid over a period of two years, the company itself will acquire 92,768 shares of the Class "A" preference stock and 200,000 shares of its Class "B" common stock from the Pennsylvania Gas & Electric Company.

The 200,000 shares of Class "B" stock represent four-sevenths of the common stock of the company. The company has outstanding 50,000 shares of 7 1/2 per cent cumulative preferred stock with a par value of $100 per share, aggregating $5,000,000; 202,279 shares of Class "A" preference 6 per cent stock of $50 per share par value, aggregating $10,113,950; and 350,000 shares of Class "B" common stock without par value.

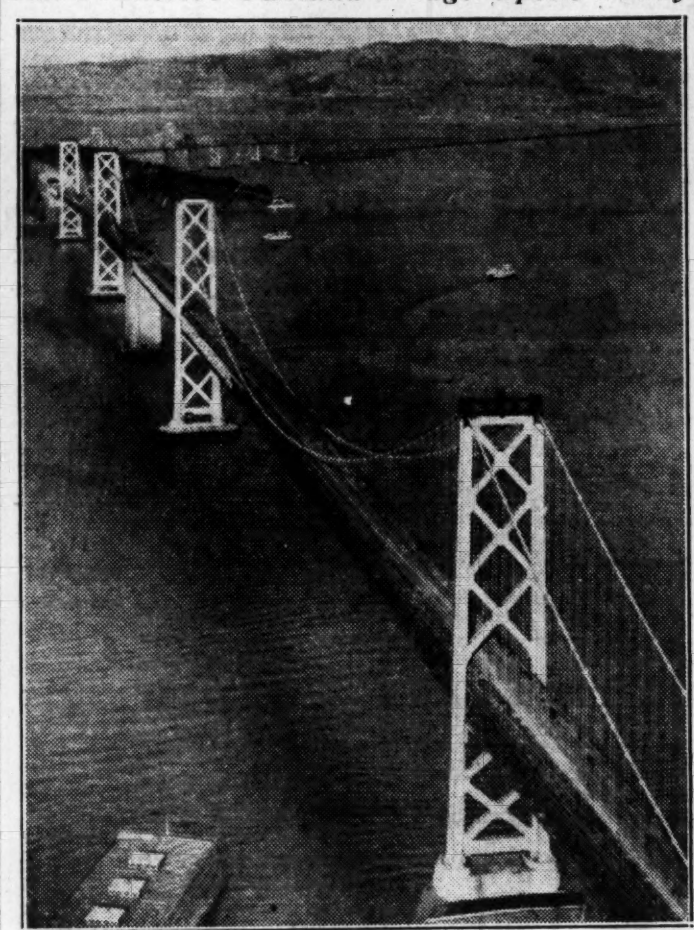

Under the reorganization plan, the company, which does an annual business in excess of $11,000,000, will issue 50,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock. One share of this new issue and four shares of the Class "B" common stock will be exchanged for one share of the now outstanding 7 1/2 per cent preferred stock. However, officials said, the aggregate of the present issue of 7 1/2 per cent preferred stock and the new issue of 6 per cent preferred stock shall not at any one time exceed 50,000 shares.

Control of company. "The result of such an exchange, if it is carried out," officials announced, "will be that the present first preferred stockholders of Atlantic Ice & Coal Company, in addition to being merely the owners of the first preferred stock of the company, will control the company by owning more than one-half of its common stock."

Approximately 30,000 shares of the company's Class "A" stock, aggregating $4,500,000, will be retired and cancelled, it was announced, thus doubling the book value of the remaining Class "A" stock and giving the

600 HELD IN HAWAII IN STRIKE MIX-UP

Sailors in Honolulu Think Orders From Committee in U. S. To Sail Faked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Disagreement over release of strike-bound ships in Hawaii arose today to halt temporarily attempts at resuming negotiations to settle the Pacific coast's general maritime strike.

More than 150 vessels remained tied up in coast ports, where 37,000 union maritime workers are on strike. Unions claimed 213 ships and 16,986 men were idle through sympathy walkouts in eastern and gulf ports. Employers disputed the latter figures.

The coast unions' joint policy committee, reverting to a former plan of permitting vessels to return to home ports, notified union officials in Honolulu, where 600 travelers are marooned, to furnish crews for seven ships tied up there.

Reports here indicated the island unions were suspicious of the authenticity of the committee's cablegram, and Assistant Labor Secretary Edward P. McGrady stepped in to clarify the situation.

McGrady wires Hawaii. McGrady, who hoped to resume strike settlement negotiations, sent this message to Governor Joseph B. Poindexter of Hawaii:

"We have been reassured by the officers of the maritime unions that orders to clear ships destined for Pacific coast ports have been issued by the joint strike policy committee here."

McGrady said he believed this would confirm authenticity of the union committee's message and provide for release of the Honolulu vessels, which include the large passenger liner Lurline and President Pierce.

In San Pedro, where 50 vessels are stranded, federal officials awaited word from Washington before advising the marshals' office what action

F.D.R. TELLS LABOR '37 SHOULD PROVE ITS BANNER YEAR

Sees Election as Mandate for Shorter Hours, 'Ade- quate' Income and Laws for Bettering Conditions

By EDWARD J. DUFFY.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Interpreting the election as an "unmistakable mandate," President Roosevelt today recommended a broad program of labor legislation by the states and pledged federal reinforcement "when problems assume an interstate or a national character."

In a letter read to the third national conference on labor legislation, he enumerated "reasonably short working hours" and "adequate annual incomes" among desired objectives. No mention of the supreme court was made; but the court's action on legislation like NRA, the Guffey act and the New York wage law—aimed at similar objectives—entered into the discussions among the delegates.

Should the projected federal and state efforts fall short, the supreme court, it was generally assumed, in view of the Democratic platform, that a constitutional amendment would be sought. The desirability of recommending one at once received some consideration in the private discussions.

New York Wants Action. Under the guidance of Secretary Perkins, who called the conference, committees set about studying wage and hour and other problems. Elmer F. Anderson, state industrial commissioner for New York and head of the committee on hours, was one who believed some sort of federal law regulation imperative.

In a state with advanced social legislation like New York, he said, "the manufacturers feel the stress of competition from states with lower standards. The problem has certainly

NEW DEAL ARGUES HOLDING FIRM ACT

Supreme Court Takes Up Power Tests With Lib- eral Justice Stone III.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The New Deal began fighting for two phases of its power program under a possibly serious handicap before the supreme court today as it won two lower court tests involving its labor policy and the investigative powers of congress.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, liberal member of the supreme court who usually has voted for the administration, did not participate in decisions handed down today because of illness. It was uncertain whether he would take part in deciding the two important utility cases.

However, Solicitor General Stanley Reed waived his privilege of asking for a postponement until Stone could return to the bench and opened argument defending the government's procedure against attacks on the utility holding company act.

Argument was scheduled tomorrow in the Duke Power Company case, a test of the New Deal policy of lending money to municipalities for building their own electric plants.

Although Justice Stone's absence was considered a hazard to the government's chances in these cases, it was believed in court circles that he might familiarize himself with them and cast a vote in case the court should be sharply divided. He has been ill since October 13 and although not considered in serious condition is

HIGH COURT RULING FAVORS WINE ACT

Georgia Attorneys Point to U. S. Tribunal's Deci- sion on California Law.

A United States supreme court decision yesterday in which the California act placing a $500 tax on importations of beer was ruled constitutional, was declared here last night as upholding the constitutionality of the Georgia wine act of 1935.

Two members of the Georgia bar, holding official positions who have studied the Georgia act and state and federal ruling on acts similar in nature, stated that the California decision appeared to be a "sweeping one" and that it undoubtedly forecasts a constitutional ruling in favor of the Georgia wine act.

One leading constitutional lawyer who did not want his name used said "It looks very much like a broad and sweeping decision." The second lawyer said that it "indicated the Georgia wine act is perfectly legal."

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS CALIFORNIA BEER LAW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The supreme court upheld today provision of the California alcoholic beverage control act imposing a $500 license for the privilege of importing beer into the state. The decision reversed the ruling of a three-judge federal court.

Justice Brandeis delivered the unanimous opinion which overruled the contention of a group of beer distributors that the license fee was an "unconstitutional burden" on interstate commerce.

"The plaintiffs argue," said Brandeis, "that a state may not regulate importations except for the purpose of protecting the public health, safety or morals; and that the importers' license fee was not imposed to that end."

Surely the state may adopt a lesser degree of regulation than total prohibition. Can it be doubted that a state might establish a state monopoly of the manufacture and sale of beer, and either prohibit all competing importations, or discourage importation by laying a heavy impost, or channelize desired importations by requiring the importer to obtain a license?

"There is no basis for holding that it may prohibit, or so limit, importation only if it establishes monopoly of the liquor trade."

Unofficially they said that the cause of the decision was the fact that the Commerce Commission as quickly as it is definitely ascertained.

Ramsay MacDonald Collapses at Banquet

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's 70-year-old lord president of the council and former prime minister, fainted tonight at a Guild Hall banquet and had to be carried from the room.

He recovered quickly, however, after receiving treatment from Lord Dawson, of Penn, the royal physician, and left the dinner with his daughter, Miss Isabel. It was explained that he was overcome by the excessive heat of the room.

Physicians said he suffered an attack of acute indigestion.

4 KILLED, 3 HURT IN TRAIN COLLISION

Freighter Fails To Wait When Ordered and An- other Hits It Head-On.

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Two freight trains telescoped in a head-on collision on the strike-harassed Louisiana and Arkansas railway today, killing four trainmen and injuring three others.

L. & A. officials said they were unable immediately to fix the cause of the pile-up but expressed the opinion it resulted from one of the trains overrunning stop orders and had apparently no connection with the labor troubles.

The two locomotives steamed into each other on the Vidalia branch near Grant, La. The wooden cars were piled up in splinters, piling two of the dead in the wreckage.

The dead were listed as: Engineer H. C. Hunter, of Shreveport; Fireman C. C. Steelman, of El Dorado, Ark.; Trainman S. W. Wright, of Rhine, La.; and Brakeman Prentiss Frazier.

Engineer J. T. Edwards and Fireman J. P. O'Brien got broken legs in the crash. Conductor John Alsop was treated for several undetermined injuries.

Ten freight cars smashed into the wrecked locomotives, tearing up considerable trackage. Road officials said the wreckage would be cleared for resumption of traffic tonight or early tomorrow.

Louisiana and Arkansas officials said, however, the trucks would be kept from changing its mind.

"Some Presidents have changed the supreme court," the veteran farm leader added, with a laugh. "Abe Lincoln did it." Amid the somewhat re-

U. S. CROP CONTROL REPORTED LIKELY

Plans of State AAAs To Be Junked for Federal Action; Election Cited.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Junking of that part of the present federal farm program which calls for a shift from federal to state administration in 1938 was said today in authoritative quarters to have been agreed upon by New Deal farm leaders.

To carry out this decision, would require congressional revision of the Soil Conservation Act. It was said to have resulted from the administration sweep in the election and recent evidence of sentiment for revival of the old Agricultural Adjustment Act that was voided by the supreme court.

Officials insisted, however, that the decision was not determined to revive the original act.

"That would be a decision either to disregard the supreme court ruling or press for a constitutional amendment," said one high ranking AAA executive.

"Such a decision could not be made by us in the Agriculture Department," he added, "but would call for a round-table discussion by the President and his cabinet."

States Do Not Act

Failure of states to set up "48 little AAAs" to take over the farm program in 1938 was said to have influenced the decision to seek revision of the present conservation act, passed by congress as a substitute.

A check today showed only four southern states—Mississippi, Louisiana, South Carolina and Alabama—had passed legislation which would set up state production control plans to share in federal benefit payments after next year.

While Secretary Wallace has given little hint of what changes he would ask in the farm program, he said a few days ago that "the magnitude of that problem is such that it really does make me quite happy that the President is in his strong position."

Asked about the possibility of passing for a constitutional amendment, Wallace said he did not care to comment.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said, however, he thought a constitutional amendment would win support of all farmers and most citizens but it was too slow. Then asked how the AAA could be revived without one, O'Neal said, the supreme court has been known to change its mind.

"Some Presidents have changed the supreme court," the veteran farm leader added, with a laugh. "Abe Lincoln did it." Amid the somewhat re-

DEFENDING FORCES RETREAT 2 MILES IN 3D DAY ASSAULT

Franco's Forces Halted at Angel Gate Leading Into Heart of Capital; Snipers Inside Capital Add to Defenders' Peril.

CITIZENS URGED TO BOMB INVADERS

Planes and Big Guns Kill 30 and 25 Bodies of Persons Executed by Loyalists Are Found.

MADRID, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Spanish Insurgents, sweeping all resistance before them in an avalanche of steel, drove to within 500 yards of Madrid proper tonight in the third day's assault on the capital.

Their powerful assault was brought up by government defenders within 500 yards of the Angel gate and Toledo bridge leading into the very streets of the capital.

The attack came down the Portugal high road through Carabanchel Bajo after deadly artillery fire and four air raids drove the government forces back two miles.

Officials of the Madrid morgue said 30 mangled bodies had been carried in following the midday air bombardment in addition to the bullet-riddled bodies of 25 others executed by government firing squads Sunday night.

The swiftly advancing Insurgents attacked the exhausted troops of the government forces in Moncloa and the University City area in the northwest, and at Vallecans in the southeast.

Nervous government militia and street guards in Madrid kept up a day-long rain of slugs on every building where Fascist snipers were thought to be hiding.

Homes of the capital were set afire; crumpled bodies were trucked to the morgue; shells and bombs sprayed stately government buildings with shrapnel.

The tenacious defenders of Madrid grimly held their posts on the city's outskirts against the assaults of Moorish legionnaires outside the city and Fascist snipers within.

Red Cross estimates placed today's death toll at 25, adding to the estimated total of between 100 and 200 killed or wounded, in Sunday's swift victory of Fascist warplanes.

Insurgent bombing and pursuit planes shook the city in three separate sorties today, diving unscathed through the popping bursts of futile anti-aircraft fire.

Bomb Main Defenses

The sleepless inhabitants had hardly cleared breakfast dishes away when at 8:30 a. m. the Fascist planes roared down upon the city. They came again at 2 p. m. and the last time 45 minutes later.

Government military leaders, believing that the bombardments were designed to crumble city-limit defenses protecting the heart of Madrid, devoted the efforts of their men to rebuilding the fortifications and barricades as fast as they were blasted down.

In each of the warplane attacks, there were nine planes, flying in neat formation until they reached the main line of the city's defenses—along the Manzanares river which form a shallow moat around the capital.

From the Toledo to the Segovia bridges, the earth spurted up as the insurgent pilots concentrated their aim on the strongest government positions as seen from the air.

In the morning air raid and the incessant artillery bombardment, almost

Cobb Says: Canyon Can't Be Spoiled

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Nov. 9.—Sweeping across Arizona today, I was moved to weave into this hundred-word dispatch a complete description of the Grand Canyon. But mercy stayed my hand. Instead, I have decided to send to all deserving applicants souvenir postcards showing views of the canyon. This will give the general idea. It looks just like the postcards, only larger.

There's one thing about the Grand Canyon—long after every other natural wonder has been desecrated with architectural doodads and the scribbled names of individuals whose signatures would look all right on the register of any dollar-a-day American place hotel, but are sort of out of place when smeared over one of creation's masterpieces, the Grand Canyon will still be unspoiled.

Here's one scenic glory so vast that not even human beings seriously can damage it—and that's par for any hole.

Margaret Mitchell Seeks in Vain For Time To Get Her Hair Washed

This is the third of a series of articles based on exclusive interviews with Margaret Mitchell, whose best-selling novel, of the south, "Gone With the Wind," has made her an international figure. The series gives readers of The Constitution the first accurate picture of this city's noted storyteller.

Now that success has enfolded Margaret Mitchell in its comforting embrace, she has three unenviable ambitions. She wants to get her hair washed; she wants to buy a couple of dresses and she wants to see that next picture of the Marx Brothers.

Atlanta's bright young author, whose book has won by a landslide, carrying even Maine and Vermont, has never been careless about her personal appearance. This strong desire to freshen herself up does not mark a new era in her personal habits. She comes from one of those quiet, old southern families, born to that type of manner whose two-story white columns often in front inform whom it

Two Killed in Blast Of 75-Foot Tower

BUCKSPORT, Maine, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Two workmen were killed and seven firemen narrowly escaped a similar fate tonight when an explosion wrecked a 75-foot tower at the Maine Coal & Dock Works plant here.

Police said the dead were Ralph Fry, 30, and William Woodman, 19, both of Bucksport.

Bodies of the victims were not immediately recovered from the tangled wreckage.

Investigators said the explosion occurred when a conveyance belt broke and sparks ignited sulphur that was stored in the tower.

THREE READY TO TAKE UTILITY BOARD POSTS

Perry, Knight, McWhorter Await Certification of Election Returns.

The three incoming members of the Georgia Public Service Commission were in Atlanta last night ready to assume their offices as soon as Secretary of State John B. Wilson certifies to Governor Talmadge returns from last Tuesday's general election, which may be today or tomorrow.

The three new members are J. A. Perry, of Atlanta; Perry T. Knight, of Valdosta, and Matt L. McWhorter, of Lexington. They defeated three present members in the primary and were elected without opposition in the general election.

Secretary of State Wilson said last night that "six or eight counties" have a slight case of influenza but his office reported he would be able to come to the capitol when the final returns arrive. Napier Burson, chief clerk in Mr. Wilson's office, said last night that "six or eight counties" have not yet sent in their returns, but that he expected them to be complete today or tomorrow.

The new commissioners will succeed Ben T. Huiet, of Atlanta; T. K. Davis, of Meigs, and J. J. E. Anderson, of Statesboro.

MINERS GET INCREASE.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A wage increase of approximately 10 per cent in the total miners' pay roll, affecting more than 5,000 men engaged in 16 mines of the Oliver Iron Mining Company, in Minnesota and Michigan, was announced today by Le Roy Salsich, president of the firm here. The increase will be effective November 16.

Why put up with half-sick days, when a delicious cereal will make you feel so good? Because ALL-BRAN has "bulk" which absorbs moisture within the body. Then gently sponges out your system, wipes away the listlessness, the "blues," the headaches.

Scientific tests prove this natural food is both safe and effective—worlds better than taking patent medicines. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Take it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GEORGIANS TO RETAIN CHAIRMANSHIP POSTS

State's Congressmen Are Expected To Continue Committee Positions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Election of another Democratic Congress insured Georgians against the loss of committee spots they held in the last session, but apparently gave them no new chairmanships.

The state's oldest member in service is Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, representative from the sixth district, who came to congress in 1915. His seniority gave him the chairmanship of the important naval affairs committee when the Republicans were forced into back seats six years ago. Representative Robert Ramspeck of Decatur, a congressman since 1929, will retain his chairmanship of the civil service committee. Ramspeck is second ranking Democrat on the claims committee, and third on the committees on labor and merchant marine and fisheries.

In the senate, Walter F. George, of Georgia, is chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, which he will retain in the new session. A senator 14 years, he has risen to third place in the committees on civil service and finance.

CAR-TRAIN CRASH KILLS DR. C. H. MAYO'S SON

ALMA, Wis., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The promising career of Dr. Joseph G. Mayo, whose father is a world famous physician, ended early today in an automobile-train collision.

Dr. Mayo, 34, son of Dr. Charles H. Mayo, who with his brother, Dr. William J. Mayo, heads the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., was killed when his automobile was struck by a Northern Pacific passenger train near Cochrane, Wis.

County officials said he apparently had mistaken the railroad tracks for a near-by main highway as he came in from a side road in the darkness.

CHEST DRIVE MESSAGE TO BE SOUNDED DAILY

Broadcast at Five Points To Tell All Atlanta Story of Campaign.

As the people of Atlanta steam past Five Points this week, they will receive an urgent invitation to "Say Yes" to the fourteenth annual Community Chest campaign.

From a platform built around the flag pole, a public radio broadcast will go out each day, carrying the message of the Chest.

With gay music this broadcast will emphasize the happy spirit of the campaign to meet the needs of Atlanta's unfortunate, and the campaign slogan: "We can do more this year."

Speakers from every walk of life, heads of large companies, public officials, employees and workmen, will tell their side of the Chest story.

This part of the Chest campaign begins as two of the three important divisions of the Community Chest campaign workers are actively at work in advance of the formal campaign opening next Monday.

Over a thousand volunteer workers are carrying the Chest story to ad-

SANITATION EXPENSES IN ATLANTA REVEALED

City's Per Capita Cost for Varied Services Shown Above Average.

Atlanta expends more money than the average city in its class for sewage disposal, street cleaning, refuse collection, etc., according to a report released yesterday by Director William L. Austin, of the bureau of census Commerce Department, Washington.

Comparative statistics for the year 1934 show the city expended a total of $490,019 or $1.75 per capita, and that the national average of cities in Atlanta's class is about $1.60 per capita for the same period.

The two largest expenditures in Atlanta were $240,756 for refuse collection and $147,225 for street cleaning. Local expenditures for the sanitary department were 6.7 per cent of expenditures made for all other departments of the municipality.

Dallas expended $1.28 per capita for 1934; Birmingham, 77; Denver, $1.28; Syracuse, $3.44; Dayton, $1.76; Worcester, $2.00; Richmond, $1.81; Fort Worth, $1.30; Hartford, $2.63; Long Beach, $1.94; Nashville, $1.36; Springfield, Mass., $3.72; Bridgeport, $2.73.

BILL AGAINST FASCIST.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Wearing of political uniforms, such as those used by Sir Oswald Mosley's English Fascists, would be prohibited in a bill introduced in the house of commons today by Home Secretary Sir John Simon. The "public order bill" is in accordance with the wishes read into King Edward's speech opening parliament.

CONCERT ATTENDANCE ARRANGED IN SCHOOLS

Sutton Announces Students
May Miss Classes for Piano Ensemble.

All public school students of Atlanta who plan to attend the Georgia piano ensemble matinee concert for the benefit of the Rabun-Gap Nacoochee school, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, will be excused from afternoon classes, according to announcement yesterday by Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Sutton, stating the concert "centers attention on the artistic and unifies cultural feeling throughout Georgia," urged all public school students to attend one of the performances, and "to study the program carefully before going in order to be intelligently prepared to appreciate it all."

Mrs. Paul E. Bryan, secretary of the Piano Ensemble Association, has announced the following will usher at the matinee performance:

Myrtice Clair Johnson, Susan Garrett, Isabel Bryan, Emmanuelle Chandler, Ruth Conner, Harold Coolege, Peter Harrower and Stanley Brown.

The series of posters designed and made by the art classes of Girls' High school and Joe Brown Junior High school to advertise the concert will be on exhibit in the foyer of the Erlanger theater.

A jury composed of Lewis Skidmore, Ruth Alsbrook and R. M. Britt will award a prize to the artist who made the most original and artistic poster.

HOEPPPEL, SON FAIL ON LIBERTY PLEA

Federal Judge Refuses To Grant Habeas Corpus Writ to California Pair.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 9.—(UP)—After a three-hour hearing, Federal Judge Robert N. Pollard late today denied a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to release Representative John H. Hoeppel, Democrat, California, and his son, Charles.

The pair, arrested here Friday night by special government agents after they disappeared from California on October 20, are under sentence on charges of selling an appointment to West Point.

The Hoeppels were returned to the Henrico County jail pending a hearing tomorrow on a motion for surrender to their bondsmen for return to Washington, where they are scheduled to start serving their jail term.

Jesse C. Duke, attorney for the convicted pair, argued that their sentence was illegal since the jury that heard their case included two government employees.

GEORGIA COMPANY LOSES TAX APPEAL

American Bakeries Case Dismissed in Supreme Court of United States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The American Bakeries Company of Georgia, operators of three baking plants in Alabama, lost today in the supreme court in its effort to force compliance with a municipal tax ordinance of Huntsville, Ala.

Their appeal was dismissed "for want of a final judgment."

A judgment against the bakery was delivered by the Alabama supreme court.

The company contended the city imposed a tax on $300 on outside baking concerns doing a delivery business in Huntsville, and that the tax on stores regularly open to the public within the city was only $100.

A discrimination based solely upon residence, or the location of a place of business, cannot be justified in a taxing statute, the company maintained.

Son Wounded by Owen To Go to Grandfather

When little L. N. Owen Jr. recovers from the bullet wound inflicted by his father last week, he will go to reside with his grandfather, L. D. Moore, of Concord, N. C., it was announced yesterday.

The 11-year-old boy was seriously wounded when his father, a World War veteran, ran amuck and killed his wife, daughter and himself in their modest Jonesboro road home last Friday.

Moore yesterday filed an application with Fulton Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries to be appointed the boy's guardian and administrator of the Owen estate. Hearing on the application will be held December 7.

Hospital attaches said yesterday the only surviving member of the Owen family will be well enough to leave the Grady hospital within two weeks.

Chesterfield Wins

There is no higher standard of tobacco quality than the Chesterfield standard.

Proper curing by the farmer gives flavor to Chesterfield tobaccos just as it does to fine hams and bacon.

Like fine wines, Chesterfield tobaccos are aged for two years or more to make them mellow and better-tasting.

MARGARET MITCHELL IS BESET BY SUCCESS

Living as she has always lived, in spite of the cascades of royalties that sweep through the doorway every week bringing their promises of marble halls or roomy cottages, covered with honeysuckle, far out in the country, those accepted havens of successful authors.

Five rooms and a bath, she believes, are enough room for any young couple who have no children to demand broader spaces. However, now that she is getting a volume of mail that would gladden the hearts of directors of any mail order corporation, she would like just one more small room.

Adjoining her living room is a windowed cubbyhole that some tenants of moderate-priced apartments use for a sun parlor, others for a spare bedroom. In there, she has her work shop, housing a desk and two tables piled high with correspondence through which she toils every day. She looks at it wistfully.

One More Little Room.

"I wish I had another little room like this right off there," pointing through a window to an outdoor space, an elbow off the apartment building's court. "If I had just a room there, I'd be fixed. I could spread out. I wouldn't have to be holding a mountain of mail on my knees while I work out the answers with my secretary."

She had two secretaries at first; one working the day shift from 9 to 5, the other coming in at 7 p. m. and working until midnight. Now she has things more or less under control and she is working just the day secretary, who is doing, however, some overtime now and then.

The mail starts coming shortly after 5 o'clock every morning. Special

World Fame Hers, But She Wants Quiet Life

Royalties may pour in for Margaret Mitchell, as her novel of the old south, "Gone With the Wind," continues to set records as a best seller, but she is determined that she will not disrupt the quiet life to which she has always been accustomed. Here, the young author who has become a world figure, is shown in her five-room apartment.

deliveries that have collected in the postoffice overnight and telegrams and night letters that had come in on the night wires are delivered to the door of Apartment 9 at No. 4 East Seventh street, N. E. The author signs for these bundles in person for those yawning messenger boys to whom the collecting of autographs of notables is a boring routine. Then she brews herself a pint of strong coffee and sits down to read. Usually in the mail is a demand from her publishers that she do this or that to help them with various problems and she gets her answer into the early northbound air mail.

No Beauty Shop Dates.

"So, I have to pass up a date with the hair dresser. I've had my hair washed at a beauty shop just about twice since all this started. I'm having to do that job myself somewhere between midnight and 5 a. m. Look at it!" she exclaims, running her hand through her hair. "It's vile!"

Those cups of coffee she brews for herself in the early morning are the main item of her breakfast. She has a bit of toast later, about 7 a. m. when Bessie arrives. Bessie is a dignified, middle-aged colored woman who has been attending to the comforts of Margaret Mitchell and her husband, John Marsh, for years. She will be with them for years.

Bessie's capable shoulders carry the burden easily. She is the familiar type of modern southern servant, that curious compound of doorman, butler, cook, maid and what-have-you. She is proud of the success of "Miss Margaret."

"Bessie All I Need." The young author was asked if she intended to branch out, now that the flood of good fortune has assured her of an easy, comfortable life. Her visitors wanted to know when she would move to Atlanta's fashionable Peach Ferry road and hire the usual retinue of attendants.

"Great heavens, no!" came the instant response. "Bessie is all I need. I don't know what I would do with a personal lady's maid. I'd never feel comfortable if I hadn't put on my own clothes. Heaven knows what Bessie would think, or say, if she saw me in there with someone else dressing me. She could never tolerate such goings-on. She's sharing my happiness with me now, but if she saw me putting on airs, she'd walk out that front door, crushed and broken, like Napoleon retreating from Moscow."

Down here in Atlanta, Margaret Mitchell is simply Peggy Marsh. Her husband is advertising manager of the Georgia Power Company, a steady, capable business executive, entirely capable of supporting his wife in good circumstances. He is a Kentuckian, who first taught English at a university of Kentucky and then moved to newspaper work as a proofreader. He served in the army and then became a reporter, moved to Atlanta and met Margaret Mitchell. The year she made her debut and just before both of them were on the staff of a local newspaper. He joined the public relations department of the power company and has settled down to a comfortable living. He and Peggy live quietly and well. They avoid bridge, attend parties rarely and give a party, themselves, just once a year—at Christmas.

Does Not Like Travel. "I don't like to travel," announces Peggy, emphatically. "I don't want to go to the world. I don't want to shoot tigers in India or Africa, or wherever the tigers are. I love to go down to Macon, Ga., and to Quitman, where I have some good friends, and I don't like to go to those places just for the journey. I like the crowd on the Macon News, who have always been my friends, and I like Daniel and Edna Cain Daniel at Quitman."

"I like to ride street cars," she announces defiantly. Part of her husband's duties is to promote the passenger travel on Atlanta's trolleys. "I mean that," as her visitors laughed. "I enjoy street cars."

The only automobile in the Marsh family was bought just two years ago and it was a second-hand, 1929 model. "It's all we need to go around town," she says. "No, I don't intend to buy a new one until I need it and John and I never will need more than one car. I hope. We expect to go to living right here in Atlanta just as we are living now."

Donald Duck Fan. Her favorite moving picture is Donald Duck and she announced with an air of achievement that she had snatched time off a few weeks ago to see him in his latest adventure.

Around the house, when she works, she wears corduroy trousers. "Regular trousers," she says. "Not those slacks. Plain trousers and one of John's old shirts. I can work in that outfit."

"I have a hard time buying dresses. I wear the same regular child's size and they are hard to find. I have bought only two dresses in the last six months. That's why I'd like to have a little time to go downtown and lay a few."

Her favorite reading is detective stories. She enjoys shrieks in the night, slinking Chinamen, bright detectives and dummy Doctor Watsons.

"Can't Write Longhand." She writes all her personal correspondence on a typewriter, and resents having to do a formal note in longhand. "I just can't write longhand," she says, proudly. "I could never dictate a book to a secretary or do it with a pen and ink. I can't do any creative thinking unless I'm pounding the keys."

She leads this simple life and she wants to go on just like this, except she could use that other small room.

"And," she adds, "I want to see my father more than I am able to just now. I haven't been around the corner enough, lately."

Tomorrow's installment of this series will tell how the author of "Gone With the Wind" handles the world that has beaten a path to her door. She will describe some of her experiences with her newly made friends, the readers of her book, and the questions that she has to answer now that the world is interested in her private life.

DEFENDERS OF MADRID PUSHED INTO CAPITAL

bombs exploded near the French embassy—almost struck by a bomb on Sunday.

Another shattered house near the Puerta de Sol—called Madrid's "Times Square."

Three shells struck in the heart of the theatrical district; others hit apartment houses near the war ministry.

Explosions were heard near the ministries of war, communications and navy. Three or four shells ripped holes in the pavement of the Gran Via—main business thoroughfare—causing crowds of strolling shop girls to throw themselves face down on the street.

During the afternoon the land bombardment of the center of Madrid eased off somewhat, although rapid cannoning continued on the city's outskirts. In the evening shells again rained down on central buildings, including the war ministry.

The outlying sections of the capital trembled under the brunt of the bombardment. Most of the inhabitants had been evacuated long since by the government, which expected that the fiercest part of General Francisco's attack would be felt there.

Gun Fire Plainly Heard. The ears of Madrid's inhabitants rang with the shrieks of air raid sirens and clanging ambulance bells, heard over the roar of exploding bombs and shells.

Fire engines sped from one section of the city to another as houses after house was set on fire by incendiary projectiles.

The sound of machine gun fire for the first time was heard in Madrid streets as the opposing forces fought for possession of Casa del Real Camo—once the recreation grounds of former King Alfonso and the site of two government buildings.

The government meanwhile announced that at various points the enemy was driven back from the city's outskirts.

Despite this, the headquarters of the fifth regiment of government militia appealed to all residents of the city to retreat to the enemy in the city's streets.

They called upon the inhabitants to get bottles of gasoline and stoppers of cotton. They should light the cotton and then hurl the ignited bottles of gasoline at insurgent tanks from rooftops.

Loyalist Reinforcements. They could do this, the inhabitants were told, without danger to themselves.

Outside Madrid the Fascists fought to break through the government line, swinging around to the north and apparently seeking to enter Madrid through University City and the region where the Manzanares river is the shallowest, its low banks open to easier attack.

The leaders of the government fighting men were cheered by authoritative reports that strong reinforcements had arrived from Barcelona, ready to counter-attack as soon as such a move was feasible.

"Every citizen of Madrid," a proclamation said, "should make his home a veritable fortress."

"Every house should be put into a condition to make it a bulwark for the independence of our people from which we can attack the Moors and Legionnaires in force."

Snipers Are Sought Out. As evidence that the government was concentrating all possible troops on the defense of the capital, forces from other parts of the region appeared in Madrid during the day.

Foreigners streamed to the embassies. The American embassy held 42 United States nationals.

Although shops and cafes were almost entirely closed, and hardly any civilians were on the streets, Madrid street cars bravely rattled to and fro.

Throughout the bombardment government militia staged running rifle and machine gun duels with Fascist sympathizer snipers.

"The phantom fifth column" is what the government leaders called the snipers, as the actual Fascist attack on Madrid comprised four columns of General Franco's men.

In London today the Spanish government notified Great Britain that the transfer of the government ministries from Madrid to Valencia "in no way marks any stage of abandonment or retreat. On the contrary it is a step toward realization of an urgent desire by all regions in the hands of the government to mobilize themselves in a joint offensive."

CAPTURE OF BRIDGES IS MAIN OBJECTIVE. By ELMER W. FLETCHER. WITH THE SPANISH FASCIST ARMY OUTSIDE MADRID, Nov. 9. (AP)—Fascist troops struggled tonight to cross the Manzanares river, the last barrier between them and Madrid, their goal in the nearly four-month civil war.

Moors and Foreign Legionnaires plunged into the stream which flows along Madrid's western and southwestern outskirts, in an attempt to battle their way into the city from which the government has fled.

Actual penetration of the capital's northwestern section was reported by Fascist officers, but there was no word to indicate how far the reported advance had gone.

At insurgent headquarters at Talavera De La Reina, far southwest of Madrid, it was reported a government force estimated at 25,000 made an unsuccessful counter-attack against the Fascists on Madrid's northwest side.

Artillery Fires Houses. The militiamen included a hurriedly conscripted body of youths and men of all ages, it was said. Fascist aircraft flew low in the Casa Del Campo section, the government fighters attacked but were repulsed under strong artillery fire and fled in panic back into the city, Fascist officers said.

Insurgent artillery, stationed near the Toledo and Segovia bridges across the Manzanares, poured shells into the southwestern district of the capital, setting fire to some houses. Many of the inhabitants of the region had fled before the bombardment began.

The foot soldiers were ordered to ford the river, south of the Toledo bridge, because their officers feared the government militiamen were prepared to blow up the spans with mines if the insurgents tried to cross on the bridges.

Madrid's defenders were concentrated on the city ends of all the bridges—the Casa del Campo, Segovia, Toledo and Princessa spans.

They bore the brunt of the Fascist shelling. The insurgents also rained machine gun and rifle fire across the stream in an effort to

Those for Whom War Never Ends Given Invaluable Aid by Cheatham

Thousands of Veterans and Families Look to Service Officer for Help.

By RALPH T. JONES.

There is no Armistice Day for tens of thousands of Georgia men and women. For these the war has never come to an end, the struggle still goes on and there shall be no peace for them until they find eternal peace with the grave.

These are the men and women who were wounded, shell shocked or otherwise incapacitated during war service, and they are the mothers, the widows of the other American citizens who died in the war.

These are the men and women who were wounded, shell shocked or otherwise incapacitated during war service, and they are the mothers, the widows of the other American citizens who died in the war.

Arthur Cheatham, department service officer in Georgia of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, was talking about these men yesterday. He has interviewed thousands of them in his work, and is doing his best to secure their rights in disability allowances and other government aid.

He is, in addition to his capacity with the Legion and the V. F. W., assistant director of the State Veterans Service Office, and it is due to his intense interest and untiring efforts that thousands of Georgia veterans of the World War and the Spanish American war have been able to establish the justice and the legality of their claims for compensation.

Yesterday Cheatham told, in general terms, of the dramatic stories of some of these men. Their names he could not disclose, because the things they tell him, as he interviews seeking a way to help, are as inviolable as the things others tell.

Tracing of Records. But he told of the Georgia boy who was reported made prisoner by the Germans and, after a lapse of many months, was reported returned to his outfit. The official records, however, did not tell of the seven machine gun bullets left in his body when he was captured, or of the fearful privations and physical ruin that had been his.

It took 11 months, with tracing correspondence to the German war records, the British and the American, to establish his claim. Yet, Arthur Cheatham did it and secured badly needed financial help for a physically disabled Georgia veteran.

He told of the widow, with four children, whose veteran husband died without establishing his claim. For five years this little family was practically dependent upon charity. Then the work of the service office bore fruit and she received a government check for $1,800.

There are thousands of other stories, each dramatic, heart-wrenching and bitter. Arthur Cheatham, if he would could tell you them all. But he won't. Particularly not that part concerning the work of Arthur Cheatham for these men and women. To learn that you have to go either to the men and women themselves or to the records of the service office.

Look at the records: Service Without Pay. He has been working for the veterans and for their widows for seven years, the first half of which was without recompense. He did it, and paid all his own expenses, out of sympathy for his fellow veterans and in thankfulness for his recovery from severe battle injuries of his own.

The record tells, however, how in 1933 the presidential or special board heard Arthur Cheatham personally present to the review boards 748 cases in 77 working days. He won by appeal 94.34 per cent of all cases presented.

This was a national record. Figures are dry, but it is a matter of record that, during the past three and one-half years, Cheatham has been responsible, by his co-operation, for the government troops away from the bridges.

Women's Battalion Wiped Out. A separate Fascist force was assigned to each of the structures, each having its own artillery.

Insurgent officers declared one of the greatest struggles of the whole civil war would occur within Madrid if and when their troops entered the city.

A battalion of Socialist women was reported to have been almost completely wiped out last night in the Fascists' advance to their positions along the Manzanares.

As the government fighters fled across the bridges into the city, Fascist guns hurled shells into the capital. Between Segovia and Toledo streets, in the capital, flames broke out.

Then the insurgent command temporarily suspended the bombardment to enable civilians to quit the danger zone outside the city to leave Madrid itself. A line of freedom still was open to the east, toward the Mediterranean. The government, which fled from Madrid Saturday, has set up headquarters at Valencia on the Mediterranean coast.

BRITAIN TO CONTINUE NEUTRALITY STANCE. LONDON, Nov. 9. (AP)—French Premier Leon Blum's expressed wish to aid the Spanish government will have no effect on Britain's neutrality stand, informed persons declared tonight.

In some quarters the belief was expressed Blum's declaration represented "mere internal politics."

Blum's popular front government, composed of Socialists and other left parties, has been sympathetic with the Spanish administration but has maintained a hands-off policy.

Blum declared that "if concerted action with England (to aid the Spanish government) is possible, I am ready to undertake it."

Technical questions concerning stricter supervision of imports into Spain were considered by a subcommittee of the international non-interference committee, meeting in London, but the session adjourned without major action.

Russia has accused Italy, Germany and Portugal of sending war materials to aid the Spanish Fascists, while those three nations have declared Russia has assisted the Spanish government. All four are parties to the non-intervention agreement.

The Spanish government's ambassador here informed Great Britain, in a note, that transfer of the seat of administration to Valencia from Madrid "does not mark any stage of abandonment or retreat but on the contrary is a step toward realization of the vehement desire of all regions in the hands of the government to mobilize themselves in a joint effort."

PLURALITY OF F. D. R. TOTALS 9,809,940 VOTES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—The latest tabulation of unofficial returns for President in the November 3 election gave President Roosevelt a popular vote plurality over Governor Landon of 9,809,940.

With 12,413 out of 122,672 districts missing, the vote was Roosevelt 25,810,049, Landon 16,000,109.

AMBULANCE DRIVER FINDS NEGRO SLAIN

Stabbed in the heart, the body of a negro identified as William Pyles, 33, of 412 Markham street, was found at Mitchell and Mangum streets at about 11:30 o'clock last night.

He was pronounced dead upon arrival at Grady hospital. The driver of a negro ambulance said he discovered the body when called by an unidentified person. No witnesses to the apparent homicide were found.

3 HELD FOR ROBBERY ON COASTAL STEAMER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 9. (AP)—Three men charged with robbery on the high seas were held tonight on a steamer before United States Commissioner Carl Noble.

Booked as A. Kirschbaum and Raymond Rosenblatt, of New York, and John Horowitz, of Boston, they were accused of taking $1,550 from Louis Norden, of Williamsville, N. Y., while all were en route here on a voyage from New York.

Detective Sergeant A. A. Wethington said $1,350 was recovered.

WARM DAY TO FOLLOW CHILL MORNING START

Clear skies and a bright sun will develop this morning's colder weather into warmer weather during the afternoon, according to the weatherman as he compared yesterday's temperatures with today's prospects.

Yesterday's start for the mercury during the morning was 46 degrees. Today, says the forecaster, the start will be at 42.

But the climb today will be to 68 degrees, while yesterday 66 degrees was the best that was clocked off during the afternoon.

ROOSEVELT DECLARES '37 LABOR'S BEST YEAR to be attacked from the national viewpoint. Those of us working for these purposes in New York have been holding up for a while to be guided by what the federal government does."

The Roosevelt re-election platform took the position that such problems as wages, hours, child labor and unfair business practices could not be handled by 48 separate states. Pledging more attempts to deal with the situation within the constitution as it stands, the plank also said a "clarifying amendment" would be sought if these efforts fail to stand up legally.

Thirty-nine states were represented at today's conference, in most instances by labor commissioners, as well as numerous labor organizations. Praising accomplishments of similar conferences in the past two years, the President

1937 Outstanding Year. "I believe the country has this last week given a mandate in unmistakable terms to its legislators and executives to proceed along these lines until working people throughout the nation and in every state are assured decent working conditions, including safe and healthful places to work, adequate care and support when incapacitated by reason of accident, industrial disease, unemployment or old-age; reasonably short working hours, adequate annual incomes, proper housing and elimination of child labor."

Assuring that the Washington government would "do its part" in making such standards effective, Mr. Roosevelt expressed hope that the delegates would "assume the leadership in your communities for putting the necessary legislation on statute books."

"This coming year," he said in a sentence that attracted special attention in the spacious conference hall, "should be an outstanding one in the annals of labor legislation."

HAMILTON TO ATTEMPT TO 'REVITALIZE' G. O. P. NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP)—Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton said today he would begin work immediately to "revitalize" the Republican party for the congressional election of 1938.

He predicted that the party would emerge from its defeat in last Tuesday's election with greater strength in the next few years than it has had since the defeat of Herbert Hoover in 1932.

"I'm not going to sit around and wait until a few months before the next election to start work," he told reporters.

"I think that from an organization standpoint we are a lot better off despite our defeat than we have been in many years. Never has there been a spirit among the workers such as there was when we went to bat in this election. Of course, the whole thing went far beyond any party lines. It was the American people voting affirmation of the policies of President Roosevelt."

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of sweet almond oil. Shake well. This up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded gray hair, making it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

RETRIAL PLEA DENIED FOR WILLIAM MURRAY

CARNESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP) Judge Berry T. Mosley, of the northern circuit superior court, today denied a motion for a new trial for William Murray, under death sentence for the slaying of his father-in-law, M. C. Daniel, near Ashland, Georgia.

The defendant, who was arrested in El Paso, Texas, in August, is now in the Fulton county jail in Atlanta. Date for resentencing of the prisoner was not announced.

Daniel was killed in May.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with a burning and itching about the urethra may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness around the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give you relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Facial Expression Changes With Style of Eyewear

Selecting eyeglasses, one should exercise the same care as in choosing a becoming hat. Because a certain style looks well on some other person is no criterion for you to follow.

Fashion in glasses, as in hats, has a decided influence on one's facial expression. In no instance should eyeglasses make you appear older than you are.

Those who rely on our judgment in this matter may be sure they will not.

Dr. A. L. Patterson, pastor of the Hull Memorial Presbyterian church of Savannah, is clerk of the presbytery.

Georgia Raised Hog Sells for $170 At Auction Conducted at Albany

Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin Buys Pure-bred Animal for State College of Agriculture From J. J. Cummings, of Donalsonville Farms.

By KEN KIMBEL.
ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 9.—When one lone, grunting, squealing Georgia hog sells for $170, that's news.

And that is just what happened here at an auction sale of purebred Poland China hogs. Georgia, producing less than half of the pork eaten in the state, goes to the opposite extreme and boasts of one of the most famous purebred hog raisers in the United States.

It is John J. Cummings, owner of Donalsonville farms, in the corner of southwest Georgia. The $170 boar that was almost worth his weight in gold was raised by Mr. Cummings, and bought at the sale by Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin for the Georgia State College of Agriculture at Athens. Dr. Jarnagin also purchased a gilt for $65.

The famous Pebble Hill plantation at Thomasville topped the sale on gills at $110 for a young sow and bought five others at an average price of $80.

Mr. Cummings became a purebred breeder three years ago, but instead of starting at the bottom of the ladder he started at the top.

He made the decision to raise blue-blooded hogs, then started visiting the leading hog shows throughout the north and west, buying up champions—at champion prices.

To Donalsonville Mr. Cummings brought his aristocratic hogs, some so big they remind you of elephants. One of them cost $250 and $47.50 express charges.

The auction sale held last week in Albany was attended by 12 men prominent in the business from distant points in the north and west, in addition to 100 Georgians.

At the sale, George W. Davies, secretary of the American Poland China Record Association, Chicago, spoke, and paid tribute, not only to Mr. Cummings, but also to A. H. Jennings, farmer of the purebred hog, who has made great strides in purebred hog breeding and is a director of the national association.

Mr. Cummings brought four of the 32 hogs at the sale and paid from $27 to $90 for them. Q. P. Groover, owner of Hickory Hill Stock Farm, Lithia Springs, was another bidder, ranging in price from $28 to $90.

In addition to the hogs, Mr. Cummings sold 15 head of choice young Hereford bulls for $1,500. He has established a national reputation with his Hereford cattle and Poland China hogs.

While some of the hogs brought $110 and $170, most of the purebred animals sold for $24, $27 and $30, within the reach of any farmer and only a few dollars more than on ordinary hogs. The would-be buyer of a sale is to be held in Moultrie about January 15, it is announced.

GEORGIA TIMBER GIVEN PROTECTION

5,225,700 Acres of Forest Area Is Safeguarded During 1935.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Forest Service reported today a survey showed only 22.2 per cent of Georgia's forest area was afforded needed protection from fires in 1935.

The service said protective measures were used on 5,225,700 acres of the 23,311,940 needed protection.

On protected areas—federal, state and private—the survey showed 284,900 acres of productive forest land were burned in 1935. The five-year average, it said, was 19,390 acres over the 206,038-acre average for the five-year period between 1931 and 1935. An additional area of 10 acres of non-productive land was burned.

The report for unprotected land said 12,542 fires last year involved 2,423,630 acres and did damage estimated at $3,935,440. The five-year average, it said, was 19,390 acres over the 206,038-acre average for the five-year period between 1931 and 1935. An additional area of 10 acres of non-productive land was burned.

It explained that figures on unprotected areas were fragmentary, as complete information on fires in such territory was not obtainable.

There were 2,422 fires on protected areas, most of them small. The report said. Lightning was blamed for eight fires, railroads for 56, campers for 25, smokers for 28, debris burning for 104, incendiaries for 1,218, lumbermen for 25, miscellaneous origins for 933, and unknown causes for the remaining 31.

It said damage on protected areas last year was $405,670, an average of $142 an acre.

SEA ISLAND COTTON TO GET POISON TESTS

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the Georgia University System, said today boll weevil poisoning tests will be conducted on sea island cotton at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station next year.

Sea island cotton, a long-staple variety which sells for a much higher price than upland short-staple cotton, was grown in south Georgia on an extensive scale this year for the first time since the World War.

The success of growing this crop seems to be dependent largely on successful fighting of the boll weevil," Chancellor Sanford said in a statement.

He said the "decided tendency" toward a return of sea island production was "in some measure due to the fact that in 1935 and 1936 the weather during the growing seasons acted as a natural check for the control of boll weevil activities."

BLUE RIDGE OFFICER SAID SLAIN BY YOUTH

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP) J. K. Bell, Fannin county sheriff, said today County Policeman Tom Fry was fatally shot Saturday night by a youth listed as Roy Bolles at a lakeside resort while attempting to arrest him on a disorderly conduct charge.

Earlier in the night, Sheriff Bell said, a brother, listed as Carl Bolles, had been arrested on the charge of slaying his father two months ago.

Funeral services for the slain officer were held this afternoon.

He died while en route to a Copperhill, Tenn., hospital.

DALEY IN HOSPITAL 48, VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Pete Daley, widely known Atlanta lawyer, was removed yesterday afternoon from St. Joseph's hospital to U. S. Base Hospital No. 48, following a stroke of paralysis he suffered Saturday afternoon at the Tech-Airburn football game.

Hospital attaches last night reported Daley's condition was serious. They reported he suffered paralysis of the right side of the body.

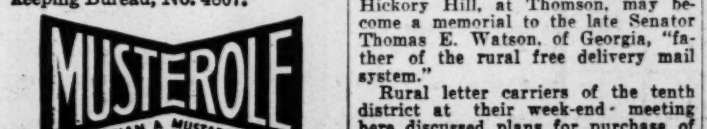

Daley, who resides with his mother, Mrs. W. R. Daley, at 581 Candler street, N. E., is an alumnus of the University of Georgia and a son of the late Judge Walter R. Daley, of Decatur city court.

RESCUE ATTEMPT FATAL TO MOTHER

Mrs. Thelma Wallace Perishes in Statesboro Fire; Sons Saved.

STATESBORO, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP) Mrs. Thelma Wallace, 34, widow of D. E. Wallace, who died last May at Adel while on a visit to that city, perished in a fire which destroyed her home in suburban Andersonville at an early hour this morning.

It is assumed the mother gave her life in a desperate effort to rescue her two young children who were taken to safety by a negro maid.

Origin of the fire has not been determined but members of the Statesboro fire department are of the opinion the blaze started in the kitchen of the home. The flames had gained much headway before they were detected.

The victim was the former Miss Phillips of Colquitt county and also a former resident of Savannah and Fayetteville, N. C.

Funeral services will be held at Fayetteville.

COLLEGE PARK LEGION TO PARADE TOMORROW

Graham, pastor of the First Baptist church of Rome, officiated and interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

Besides his parents the boy is survived by his brothers, Donald, Herbert and Harmon Garrett; his sister, Dorothy Garrett, and his grandparents, E. H. Garrett and W. F. Wood, both of Rome.

PAUL CULBERTSON.
CAVE SPRING, Nov. 9.—Paul Culbertson, 65, lifelong resident of Cave Spring, died suddenly at the old Hartner homestead here Saturday morning, after a long illness.

Mr. Culbertson was the son of Dr. I. N. Culbertson, one of the earlier settlers of Cave Spring, and a prominent leader of civic and church affairs a half century ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Harper Culbertson.

Funeral services were conducted for the home yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, by Rev. A. T. Harris, officiating. Burial was in the Cave Spring cemetery.

MRS. ALICE PARK.
ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Alice Chandler Park, 34, died at a local hospital today after an illness of seven weeks.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock at the graveside in Oconee Hill cemetery. Services will be conducted by Dr. E. L. Hill, pastor of First Presbyterian church, assisted by Dr. J. C. Wilkinson, pastor of First Baptist church.

Surviving Mrs. Park are her husband, J. H. Park; two daughters, Evelyn and Jackie Park, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Chandler.

Mrs. Park was born in Athens and lived here all of her life. She was a member of the Presbyterian church.

J. T. LIVELY.
ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—J. T. Lively, 86, died today at his home in Danielsville following an illness of one year.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock from the Vineyard Creek Baptist church with Rev. S. S. Williams, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment will be in Vineyard Creek cemetery.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. Z. Carrington, Danielsville; Mrs. D. D. Simmons, Comer; two sons, J. W. Lively, Orlando, Fla.; J. C. Lively, Comer. He is survived by grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

2 LEADERS ADDRESS ATLANTA DIETITICANS

Dr. Jennie Tilt, professor of chemistry and nutrition at the Florida State College for Women, and Miss Anna Tracy, chairman of the administration section and member of the executive board of the American Dietetic Association, were principal speakers at the weekend meeting of the Atlanta Dietetic Association last week end, it was announced.

Miss Tracy spoke on the organization of the national association, while Dr. Tilt discussed dietetics as a profession. Miss Catherine Newton, of the University of Georgia, gave a report on the national convention of the association. Dietiticians attended a dinner preceding the meeting, at which Mrs. Gussie Tabb King presided. Miss Gladys Stoddard, of Augusta, is president of the Georgia association.

HICKORY HILL URGED AS WATSON MEMORIAL

WASHINGTON, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP) Hickory Hill, at Thomson, may become a memorial to the late Senator Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, "father of the rural free delivery mail system."

Rural letter carriers of the tenth district at the weekend meeting here discussed plans for purchase of the home of the "Sage of McDuffie County."

TUBERCULOSIS GROUP TO MEET TOMORROW

State Association Will Hear Addresses on Various Phases of Work.

Directors and members of the Georgia Tuberculosis Association will open their annual session at 10 o'clock tomorrow at the Winwood hotel. Representatives of affiliated groups of the association will give reports, and officers for 1937 will be elected.

H. M. Heckman, of the University of Georgia, Athens, vice president of the association, will preside over business meetings in the absence of the president, Mrs. F. G. Hogson, who is visiting in Korea.

Major R. J. Guinn will deliver the address of welcome at 10:30 o'clock and Dr. H. C. Schenck will speak on "The Tuberculosis Control Program of the State Board of Health." Following this address Heckman will speak on "How the Program of the State Association Supplements That of the State Board of Health." Closing the morning session will be a moving picture, "Behind the Shadows," the latest production of the National Tuberculosis Association, outlining the tuberculosis control program.

Dr. W. A. Doppler, formerly connected with the International Red Cross, will speak at the luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock on "Modernizing Our Publicity." Afternoon sessions will begin at 2:30 o'clock, with annual reports will be made, officers will be elected and another tuberculosis film will be shown.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS ON VETERANS, RELIEF

President Continues Budget Studies With No Information Given Out.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Funds to run two of the government's largest spending agencies—the Veterans' and Relief Administrations—headed President Roosevelt's conferences with New Deal officials today on the budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

As in the past, no information was forthcoming immediately as to the approximate appropriations to be asked for these organizations.

The Veterans' Administration and the Works Progress Administration, with its allied organizations, received nearly $2,500,000,000 for the current year ending next June 30, exclusive of the amount needed for bonus payments and of about $1,000,000,000 left over from the previous year's work relief appropriation.

As the budget talks progressed in the President's private office, a treasury statement showed that the deficit for the current fiscal year passed the one-billion dollar mark for the first time at the close of business last Friday. The year's deficit on that day was $1,001,214,025.

Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, would not discuss his White House conference except to say his expenditures now were running around $160,000,000 a month and that all of the current year's appropriation of $1,425,000,000 had not yet been allocated.

He refused to say whether more money would be needed before July 1, but previously he had said it would.

Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator and head of the National Youth Administration, went over

PRICE RISE FORECAST FOR PORK AND STEAKS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Folks who relish pork chops, ham or juicy beef steaks were warned by experts at the Agriculture Department today that these meats will cost more and be scarce next year.

The smallest supply of meats in more than 15 years, was forecast officially in a report on "meat animals and meat in 1937."

Drouth which reduced feed supplies for meat animals and forced much breeding stock to market was blamed. "The reduction will be most pronounced in pork and in the better grades of beef," the survey said.

Another report made public by the Agriculture Department today predicted "some rise" in dairy prices in 1937.

Still another disclosed that southern states were challenging the leadership of the western corn belt in hog production.

Discussing the fact that southern states last year produced 2,000,000 more hogs than in 1936 while the corn belt turned out 20,000,000 less than in that year, the department said the hog-reducing program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration had been a contributing factor.

The trend was attributed "very largely" however, to recent drouth years that hit hardest in the corn belt. Also, the AAA program in the south, shifting much acreage from cotton and tobacco to feed crops, was described as an aid to pig production in that section.

Federal economists stressed that an expected improvement in the purchasing power of consumers would be an aid.

ROSE OF SOLEDAD

By GEORGE E. HOLT.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

When the crash of the family fortune is revealed after his father's death, Shane O'Hara sells his business, picks up an old crate he once owned and hops off at Baltimore for California to see what can be done about La Paloma ranch which his father gave him three years earlier when he was 21. Near San Felix his plane takes fire and his parachute lands him in a giant elm. A small figure in faded blue trousers imperceptibly whistles "Little Biddle in the Tree" and he threatens a spanking when he gets to earth. He does just that, only to discover the whistler is a girl who, surly at first, laughs at his embarrassment. Aged Timothy Dallas, known as Don Timoteo, asks Shane to be his guest at Rancho Soledad which by lucky chance adjoins La Paloma. When Shane meets his host's beautiful granddaughter Rose he reddens as he realizes she's the "imp" he threatened to spank. The possessive attitude towards her of Don Fernando Miller irritates him. Title to La Paloma is claimed by Sam Verdugo, a Mexican, now the manager, who warns Shane he can take possession only over his dead body. Shane is in love with Rose but she gives him to understand she is to marry Miller. Don Fernando asks him to go, riding "Just after they saw Verdugo at La Paloma's gateway. Miller says he's forgotten his cigar. Shane rides on until Miller relents. "But the next morning, Sam," he found dead, shot through the back. Shane is sure that Delano and Rose assure him they know he's innocent. He is a witness at the coroner's inquest.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

"Will you then, doctor, tell us all that you know about this case, besides what you have already said?" The doctor crossed his well creased trouser legs, leaned back in his chair, brought the tips of his fingers together. "I was summoned by telephone at about half past six this morning by a man who gave his name as Ramon Estancia, who asked me to come at once to the Rancho La Paloma because Sam Verdugo had been shot and killed. The man was very much excited, of course, and rang off before I could ask him whether he was certain that Verdugo was dead, so I came out to see. I found the man quite dead. That is all there is to be told, I think. I made the examination, superficial at the moment, more thoroughly later, at your request. The coroner nodded, relighted his cigar, chewed on it for a reflective moment. "In your opinion, doctor," he asked then, "how long had the man been dead?" "That is hard to say, precisely," replied Dr. Marks. "But the usual manner of making an approximate determination indicated that he had been dead for eight to ten hours. That is as near as I can come to it." Again the coroner nodded. "Turned to his jury. "Any questions?" he asked. Six heads shook in the negative. "Thank you, doctor; that will be all." The doctor gave up his chair, and Coroner Eckhart consulted a little memorandum on the table before him. "Ramon Estancia," he said. At the name, a man with the look of a Mexican, of early middle age, rose and came forward. He stood looking somewhat self-conscious. The coroner

II—Captured by Turks.

A few years after Queen Elizabeth came to the throne an English merchant vessel set sail for a port in southern Spain. It was called the "Three Half Moons," and on board was a man named John Fox, who held the position of chief gunner.

JUST NUTS

I DON'T FEEL ANY RAIN!

NO WONDER, YOU'VE GOT YOUR HAND TURNED WRONG!

The other prisoners were set free.

Before reaching port, the "Three Half Moons" was attacked by eight galleys manned by Turks. No war was going on, but there was bitter feeling between Turks and Christians, and pirate vessels were likely to attack at any time. The 38 men on the merchant ship fought the Turks, but were captured and put in chains to be taken to Alexandria, Egypt, where the Turks were in power.

Later a ransom was paid the Turks to free the owner of the ship, also the captain, but no ransom came for Fox and the sailors. They were made slaves, and were forced to work on the galleys. Working on the galleys was a hard task, but enough food was given the men to keep them alive so they could pull the oars which propelled the galleys when wind did not fill the sails.

During certain months of the year, when the galleys were not in use, Fox and his comrades were kept in a prison fort at Alexandria. With them were more than 200 other Christian slaves.

CHATTANOOGA CHURCH MAY BE CLOSED SOON

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 9. (AP)—Christ church, formerly one of the leading Episcopal churches of the city, will probably be closed in the near future, Bishop James M. Maxon said yesterday.

In a letter to the congregation, Bishop Maxon wrote that he would "recommend to the diocesan convention that the Christ church parish be discontinued and that arrangement be made for the sale of the property."

The church property has been under mortgage for some time, he said.

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why piles and hemorrhoids do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do it. An internal medicine should be used. HEM-RID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or weary about an operation when Jacobs Drug Store tells every Pile sufferer to try HEM-RID with guarantee of money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives. (adv.)

WPA HEADS TO HEAR TALK ON RECREATION

WPA Supervisors From Georgia Face Varied Program at Session Today.

Recreation as a legitimate function of the government will be discussed by Dr. Harold D. Meyer, of Washington, regional director, division of recreation of the WPA, this morning at the second day's session of the statewide conference of WPA recreation supervisors.

The administration and conduct of a community leisure-time center will be the theme of a discussion led by August Fischer, state director, WPA recreation program. Those scheduled to take part in the discussion are Miss Mary McGouldrick, Savannah; W. E. Vonderau, Atlanta; Miss Gladys Aldred, Gainesville; Mrs. Harvey Fleming, Atlanta; and Mrs. Leola Griffin, Atlanta.

Miss Elizabeth Thomas, of Macon, will lead a conference on the subject, "The Advisory Recreation Council." The speakers will include James Berry, Griffin, and Mrs. Inez Thompson, Thomaston.

The afternoon session will be devoted to talks on recreation activities for women and girls, with Miss Marie Parker, Atlanta, assistant state director, as leader. Various phases of this subject will be discussed by Miss Marjorie Roth, Marietta; Miss Vera Hixon, Waynesboro; Miss Pauline Holden, Thompson; and Miss Jessie Strickland, Athens.

At the session yesterday Dr. Meyer spoke on the advance of recreation in the south. His talk was followed by a discussion of music and drama in recreation. The speakers included Miss Irma Ring, Washington, assistant director of recreation; Mrs. Mabel Hobbs, of New York, drama consultant, national Recreation Association, and Herbert Price, Washington, drama consultant, federal theater project.

OPERATOR OF BUFFET IS DENIED INJUNCTION

Effort To Stop Police Action Is Dismissed in Fulton Court.

Petition of C. A. McKown, operator of the West End Buffet, to restrain Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant from making cases against him for selling beer and wine without a license from the city, was dismissed in Fulton superior court yesterday by Judge E. D. Thomas.

McKown's license was revoked by city council and later Mayor Key vetoed the revocation on provision that 11 o'clock curfew hour be observed by McKown and that an exhaust fan which blew food odors into the house of a resident be removed.

The buffet operator appealed to the superior court for an injunction against the police and the city to restrain them from molesting him.

Judge Thomas sustained the general demurrer filed by City Attorney Jack Savage for Sturdivant, which pointed out that objectionable noises about which residents complained in a petition to city council, had not been eliminated. McKown was allowed 10 days in which to file a bill of exceptions.

White Canes Will Protect Blind Pedestrians

Called Meeting Planned To Sift Rumors Attacking Superintendent.

James C. Ellis, superintendent of the city prison farm, will be under fire at a called meeting of the prison committee at which Alderman John W. Ball Jr. will insist that the probe of conduct of the municipal prisons be resumed and continued "until I have satisfied myself about the whole business."

Ball said last night he will demand the meeting of Councilman George R. Lyle, chairman, today, and Lyle said he will call the meeting as soon as possible "after it has been demanded."

"There have been persistent reports this house-cleaning did not go far enough," Ball said. "I have been told Ellis was one of the boys until the ax was beginning to fall. I want to learn whether that is true or not."

"Another thing, I think the prison farm should furnish the milk, butter and eggs needed for conduct of Grady hospital and Battle Hill sanitarium. We are not doing that now and if we have to get it from the market, we should get one who does."

Four men were ousted in the purge of the Hilliard street negro men's prison.

W. C. Andrews, foreman, and L. A. Dickerson, G. C. Duncan and R. A. Allen, guards, were the ones relieved of duty there.

The dairy part of the prison farm was abandoned about 10 years ago, during the administration of former Mayor L. N. Ragsdale, and the dairy supplies for Grady and Battle Hill have been bought under contract and on the open market.

Ball said he also will propose the installation of parking meters on Atlanta street at council's meeting Monday. He cited what he termed the successful operation of such meters on Macon streets.

Legislative Harmony Is Foreseen As Series of Conferences Begins

Governor-Elect Rivers Reports Full Satisfaction After Discussion of Assembly Plans With 1st and 2nd District Delegations Here.

A forecast of complete harmony between the executive and legislative branches of the state government was made yesterday by Governor-elect E. D. Rivers following the first of a series of conferences he has under way with the forthcoming general assembly.

"I met with delegations from the first and second senatorial districts today and will continue the series of conferences until I have discussed pending legislation with all of them who can make arrangements to attend the conferences," the governor-elect said. "Our meeting was informal, but I assured the legislative members they would have my co-operation and they assured me the executive department would have theirs."

Senator David S. Atkins, of the first district, said a number of matters were discussed but he declined to go into detail.

"For the sake of Mr. Rivers' program, there should be no discussions publicly of the things planned on," Senator Atkins said. "There will be discussions plenty when they come up on the floor of the house and senate."

Senator Atkins who, with Representative Samuel Grayson, of Chatham county, acted for the full Chatham county delegation at yesterday's meeting, heartily endorsed the conferences.

"It has been my experience that much time has been wasted because the general assembly when it meets does not know what kind of a situation it faces," Senator Atkins said. "When our new governor gets through with the delegations from each district, the legislature will know the state's problems and also should know the solutions to them."

Also attending yesterday's session were Representatives Helen W. Coxon, of Long county; J. D. Bradley, of Tattall county, and Paul Caswell, of Liberty county.

The governor-elect will meet with the delegations from the third and fourth senatorial districts today.

JOBLESS CENSUS IS SOUGHT IN U. S.

Commerce Department Prepares Bill for New Congress Approval.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—Commerce Department officials said tonight they were drafting recommendations for appropriation of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 for an accurate count of the nation's jobless.

They added that groundwork for the census—which has been demanded in some quarters ever since the Hoover administration—had been laid.

Subject to approval by the President, officials said, a bill will be submitted to congress authorizing the Census Bureau to make the survey and appropriating funds for this purpose.

"Such a census has been suggested often during the last few years, with some economists contending that detailed, authentic knowledge of the size of unemployment problem was vital to the success of any attack upon it. Estimates of unemployment have varied widely."

Senator Costigan, Democrat, Colorado, introduced a bill in the last congress providing for a census, but, lacking administration support, it failed to pass.

Officials said the Census Bureau probably could make the count in from four to six months. After the first one had been taken subsequent checks could be made more quickly and less expensively.

NEW STAR IS FOUND BY POLISH SCIENTIST

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 9. (AP)—A Polish astronomer today discovered a new star speeding through the heavens in the constellation of Cetus, Harvard observatory announced.

The star is of the ninth magnitude and described by its discoverer, a Dr. Kwiek, of Poznan (Poland) Observatory, as a peculiar type of small asteroid, similar to the "dwarf" object, which stirred astronomy circles last spring.

Harvard observatory will attempt to photograph the discovery tonight.

Let 'Em Speculate,' Says Governor, Anent Reported Retirements on Jan. 1.

By The Associated Press.

Published reports that two of the three members of the State Highway Board would step out with Governor Talmaize in January drew neither confirmation nor denial in capitol circles yesterday.

The Constitution said Sunday Chairman W. E. Wilburn and Judge McRae, a board member, would leave the board in January, giving E. D. Rivers, the incoming governor, immediate control of the board's affairs.

"It's all a matter of speculation—let 'em speculate," said Talmaize. "I have no statement whatsoever to make," said Wilburn.

McRae likewise declined to disclose his plans.

Under normal circumstances the board as now constituted would remain intact until December 31, 1937, at which time Wilburn's commission will expire.

McRae's commission, issued by Governor Talmaize on January 2 of this year, will not expire until December 31, 1941, but it must be before the next senate for confirmation.

The commission of the third member, John Heck, will not expire until the end of the year.

McRae's commission, issued by Governor Talmaize on January 2 of this year, will not expire until December 31, 1941, but it must be before the next senate for confirmation.

56 OFFICES SET UP IN SECURITY PLAN

Atlanta Among Cities Where Field Agencies Are To Be Established.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—The Social Security Board announced today 56 field offices would be established with the Postoffice Department in the assignment of social security workers to millions of wage earners for whom old-age benefits will begin to accrue January 1.

The offices, it said, will be under the direct supervision of the board.

The plan is to assign one social security worker to each of the 56 cities, to employ and employ the information required to assign the social security accounts under the old-age benefit system, provided for in the social security act, will be done by the postoffice department, the Social Security Board said.

"The Board's new offices will work with postmasters, employers, and employees in the assigning of this information and the setting up of workers' employment records. The field office personnel will be drawn from civil service lists."

The field offices will be located in the following cities:

Region 4—Baltimore, Richmond, Va.; Charlotte, N. C.; Charleston, W. Va.; and Wheeling, Va.

Region 5—Birmingham, Ala.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Atlanta, Ga.; Vicksburg, Miss.; and Nashville, Tenn.

Region 6—Kansas City, Mo.; St. Louis, Mo.; Topeka, Kan.; Little Rock, Ark.; and Oklahoma City, Okla.

Region 10—New Orleans; Dallas; Austin, Texas; and Albuquerque, N. M.

TELEGRAPH EXECUTIVE, G. W. E. ATKINS, DIES

SEWANE, Tenn., Nov. 9. (AP)—George Washington Atkins, 68, a vice president of the Western Union Telegraph Company for 30 years, died here today at the home of a son, the Rev. J. A. Atkins.

A native of Waverly, Tenn., Mr. Atkins was identified with the telegraph company. He retired seven years ago. He had been in ill health in recent months.

In addition to his son here, he is survived by another son, G. C. Atkins, of Hamilton, Ontario.

Funeral services will be conducted in New York city and burial will follow Thursday at Montclair, N. J.

'Face Hopeless'--Alex; All Georgia Backs in Shape

Mail from Sydney, Australia, in a gray envelope from the Hotel Australia.

Gene Sarazen writing:
"Dear Ralph—Just a line from the globe trotter. Here I am almost ready for the return trip home. I am the Australian open champion, a new title to travel the south this winter, and I have never struck such a stride for hitting the ball. I scored 282 and the course was at least a stroke and a half harder than Baltusrol. I also got the South Australian championship with a score of 283, and am very keen to return for the P. G. A. championship at Pinehurst."

"My trip has been a big success and it makes me feel America has opened a new field for our traveling professionals. I am sure some day there will be a circuit including Japan, the Philippines, New Zealand and Australia. I believe American professionals are getting rather plentiful and new fields must be found for the future. I hope that my work some day will be appreciated. We are sailing shortly and will look forward to seeing you. I hope you are well. You will be surprised at the weight I have lost."

GENE SARAZEN.

That P. G. A. tournament is on the books for next week at Pinehurst. And the Sarazen man is entered. If he can bang the ball through the Democratic zone of the good old U. S. A. as he has been hitting it in the land Down Under, he will be a threat. He's lost weight. And he must be in grand shape.

As for giving the man credit, his brothers in the ranks may be a little slow with it. He has been the gadfly of golf too long for them to be pinning roses on him with anything like abandon. But there is no escaping this face—no golf professional has done any more for the game than Sarazen. And the game never produced a greater competitor.

Most of the professionals who started when he did have not been up there in the major competitions in the past few years. But Sarazen was up there. He didn't win. But he was in the money.

GEORGIA AND FORDHAM.

Viewing the records, it would seem that the Messrs. William Alexander and Harry Mehre need to have a horseshoe dropped on their respective heads.

They aren't having any luck at all. Tech has dropped a couple through failure to kick points after touchdown.

Georgia has had more injuries than the emergency ward of a hospital. And when the team does show some signs of organization with some of the regulars back in uniform, the luck turns sour again.

The big intersectional game on the Georgia card is with Fordham. Fordham is one of the great teams of the nation. That is bad enough. But Fordham would probably be back on their heels for the Georgia game if it were to be played this week. And Georgia would have an excellent chance to play them a close game.

But Georgia must go this week to Tulane. And then to Fordham. And Fordham doesn't play at all this week. They will have all week to get the deflation of too many victories out of their skulls. By next week they will be all hopped up about going out to California for the Rose Bowl game.

That means they will be trying to run up the score on Georgia. They will be bearing down, inspired by the chance to go west, young men, go west. And Georgia, playing one of the great teams, will have a difficult afternoon.

All of which doesn't come under the heading of good luck.

MR. FREITAG SAYS.

Joe Freitag, the globe trotter, arrived in our town yesterday after having seen Fordham poo-poo Purdue.

"It was murder," said Mr. Freitag. "They could have beat Purdue more than that. They've got the greatest line I've ever seen. I saw a great many of the eastern and Big Ten games last year and in other seasons. But this line at Fordham is the best one I've ever seen."

"It played in Purdue's backfield most of the afternoon. And this fact made Purdue's style of play seem all the more hopeless. Instead of trying the ends at throwing passes all afternoon, Purdue kept trying to ram that line. It was no more effective than an infant ramming the brick wall of his home with a kiddy kar."

"A lot of people were playing a hunch Purdue would win," said I.

"Not a chance," said Joe Freitag. "They didn't look very smart and they fumbled when they did have a chance. No one is going to do anything with that line. It's great."

"What chance do you think Georgia will have?"
"I tell you," said Mr. Freitag. "A customer has just come in and I can't say any more."

"But about Georgia's chances?"
"The customer," said Joe Freitag, "is always right."

THE RECORD OF THE YEARS.

Ten years ago L. S. U. didn't rate with the first ten southern teams in winning records.

Now the team from Old Lou is fifth across the last ten seasons. Tennessee rates first. Alabama second.

Vanderbilt played nine of those ten years under the late Dan McGugin. Vanderbilt rates third in the south. And some of the Nashville people thought the old gentleman wasn't putting out winners. And Georgia rates sixth. Tech is 16th.

The record, from 1926 through the 1935 seasons:

Teams	Won	Lost	Tied	T. P.	O. P.
Tennessee	80	12	5	2,195	453
Alabama	75	16	4	2,114	456
Vanderbilt	66	23	7	1,830	716
Tulane	67	25	5	2,033	771
L. S. U.	60	25	8	1,756	588
Georgia	62	32	2	1,580	875
Duke	60	33	4	1,595	831
V. P. I.	51	31	10	1,188	850
North Carolina	52	35	10	1,480	862
Florida	49	40	7	1,484	1,019
South Carolina	52	41	5	1,072	1,050
Maryland	55	42	7	1,569	1,106
Clemson	49	42	6	1,444	1,074
Kentucky	45	41	6	1,336	823
Mississippi	44	43	8	1,431	1,233
Georgia Tech	43	49	4	1,147	1,207
Mississippi State	37	47	5	815	1,334
N. C. State	37	49	7	816	959
Virginia	33	48	14	998	1,282
Auburn	40	51	4	1,097	1,097
Washington and Lee	34	52	9	847	1,202
V. M. I.	37	56	5	779	1,219
Seawee	26	60	5	574	1,558

Given a few more years, Auburn will be up there. Georgia is fifth in actual games won, but a few more losses puts them just below L. S. U. Most of those victories were won by Harry Mehre's teams.

TECH WILL TRY TO LIMIT TIDE TO LOW SCORE

Jackets in Shape; 'Bama's Great Record Speaks for Itself.

By Jack Troy.

Rose Bowl bound—or at least the selection of the sports writing people as the best bet from the eastern section of the country—Alabama's Red Elephants, again recognized as the Tifflins from Tuscaloosa, will make a coffee stop Saturday afternoon at Grant field.

Recognizing the tremendous odds, Georgia Tech players yesterday settled down to work hopeful of making a good showing.

"If we are able to hold the score down," said Coach W. A. Alexander, "I will be satisfied. The boys did a great job against Auburn and might have won but for a couple of bad breaks."

"I am proud of that showing even if it was only a moral victory. I can't expect them to play that kind of football two Saturdays in a row. Football players are only human, after all."

A HEARTY LAUGH.

Coach Alex got a hearty laugh out of a story written yesterday by an afternoon sports editor whose office is located on Marietta street.

"Can you imagine a person in his right mind writing that Tech is a good long shot bet to beat Alabama? 'Offhand, I would say the fellow was crazy. I would not call anybody a liar, but I will say this—the story did not contain one word of truth."

"Do you know how much ground Alabama gained by rushing against Tulane. Well, I'll tell you. Just 338 yards. Add to that the 60 gained on passes and you have a grand total of almost 400 yards."

"I might ask the same question about the Tennessee game. And I'll answer it. There was a total of well over 300 yards. And you know, of course, that only a freak of circumstances prevented Alabama from scoring in the first half. Thomas' team had the ball on the 1-yard line, first and 10, and before it could line up for a play, the whistle blew."

WORK FOR GEORGIA.

Coach Alex sat there staring into space. "We're starting preparations for the Georgia game," he continued. "We're going to scrimmage a lot this week to keep in the best shape for Alabama, of course. We've got to play hard football to keep down the injuries."

"I figure maybe we can make it interesting for Florida the week after the Alabama game. But the game we are going to lay for is the Georgia game."

"I wish you would contradict all such talk as is being written about 'long shots.' We can't hope to beat Alabama this week. Even had we been lucky enough to take Auburn, our chances still would be the same."

"Alabama has great line play, plenty of power in the backfield, speed and everything to gain by winning Saturday. There are a couple of boys named Joe—Kilgore and Riley—who are plenty good in the backfield. Riley packs a punch. He's the real spark. Scouts tell me Kilgore does all right, too."

SOUND REASONING.

No, the Old Man wasn't spreading it on. He has a good point there, as many will agree. After Tennessee had played Alabama, Coach Bob Neyland said, "Watch Alabama. They're the best team in the south."

Chet Wynne, Kentucky coach, took his Wildcats to New York to play Manhattan College. Alabama, unopposed as the best team in the country and his choice for the Rose Bowl.

Incidentally, the score of the Tech-Alabama game last year was 39 to 6. Alabama is considerably better than last year and Tech has lost two in a row. Clemson and Auburn gained one-point victories.

The Jackets opened the week yesterday by going through a punting scrimmage in an effort to hold out the rushers, who were the freshmen, and then ran the remainder of the afternoon in an offensive scrimmage, also against the freshmen.

The showing was nothing to mention loudly in public. The freshmen proved rather stout against Tech's line plays and blocking for end runs and passing was, for the most part, poor.

CONGRATULATIONS.

In fact, toward the end of day Coach Alex was congratulating his Tech players on their splendid assignment and put on a block that even momentarily checked a freshman defender.

Tech does not have any serious injuries, fortunately. Red Collins is improving splendidly. Fletcher Sims has recovered.

Dick Beard is having trouble with a toe again and will be held out of scrimmage. Lawrence Hays' ankle is not quite well, but he's able to work.

Big Bill Jordan wrenched an ankle but will be available this week. Glenn Cushing, who played quite a game at tackle, was rather battered, but will be ready.

Physically, Tech will be all right for the Alabama game.

But the odds are too great.

Tarzan White Lost to Tide.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP) Injuries to Arthur (Tarzan) White, one of the line stars of the Alabama-Tulane game, had Alabama coaches worrying today as the Crimson Tide started practice for the contest Saturday with Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

White, hurt in the second quarter against Tulane, is the third guard to be rendered unfit for duty in recent weeks. Joe Shepherd, senior reserve, was lost two weeks ago to appendicitis, and Alternate Captain Bill Peters went out last week with the same trouble.

Loss of White and Peters, the two regulars, and Shepherd, leaves Leroy Monsky and Louis Botick, a sophomore, as likely starters against Tech. Their work has been acceptable, but Foshee and Harkins, advanced to first line reserves by the mishaps, have little or no experience.

Coach Frank Thomas, pleased with the 34-7 victory over Tulane, gave his charges a light drill this afternoon. A fresh squad is working on Georgia Tech plays to shoot at the regulars in practice tomorrow.

Of the first six football teams to face Alabama this year, only one, Loyola of New Orleans, scored. But Loyola lost to the Tide, 13-0.

These Alabama Stars May Fall on Tech Saturday

Captain Bubber Nisbet, left, and Joe Kilgore led the Crimson Tide in its 34-7 victory over Tulane's Green Wave Saturday, and expect to repeat the performance before a large, though hostile, audience Saturday at Grant field when they engage the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech. Nisbet is a Georgia boy. Kilgore and Nisbet each carried the ball 18 times against Tulane. Each scored once. Kilgore gained 102 yards for top honors, and Nisbet was second with 72 yards. The photos above show them as they look posing with the pigskin, but Saturday will provide an opportunity to see them gallop with that ball. The Tide rates as a two-touchdown favorite by a comparison of the records.

'Athlete's Foot' Trouble Brings Grief to Tech

Eight Games Lost by One Point Since 1933; No One Can Kick Goals.

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia Tech has lost 11 football games since the start of the 1930 season through that terrible disease known as athlete's feet.

I mean, no Georgia Tech athlete has been found with feet, or a foot, which can kick a football through the goal posts with any degree of consistency.

The two games dropped this season indicate the affliction is becoming more and more virulent. Clemson went away with a 14-13 victory. Auburn left with a 13-12 victory one week later.

The trouble has existed at Georgia Tech in a mild form for some years. It was rather mild in 1930 when Tech outplayed North Carolina and got tied six and six.

In 1931 it broke out in epidemic form. Tech outplayed Penn all the way at Philadelphia that year and lost 13 to 12. Tech should have won by two tallies.

That same year North Carolina was outplayed, yet got a tie at 19 to 19.

In 1932 the trouble was back again. Kentucky beat Tech, 7 to 6, and Vanderbilt won, 9 to 6. Failure to kick a field goal produced a situation which later gave Vanderbilt a safety.

And Georgia capped that season with a 7-to-6 victory. That was three in the one year.

In 1934 Florida won, 13 to 12, despite the fact Tech had the edge in figures. Tech outplayed Tulane and lost by the same score, 13 to 12.

Last year Vanderbilt won, 14 to 13, after Tech had pushed the Commodores all over the lot. And this year Clemson and Auburn have done it again.

The figures for the past three seasons and thus far with the present campaign, reveals that since 1933 Tech has dropped eight games by one point. If that isn't serious trouble with athlete's foot then nothing is.

Mr. Alexander is shopping around for some strong medicine. He would dislike more than you know to lose another game, and to lose another one by a lone point would be simply terrible.

Eight games lost by one point since the 1933 season, began is an epidemic of athlete's foot trouble such as few coaches have been called upon to endure.

Warren Bulldogs Battle Whiteford

Warren's Bulldogs and the Whiteford Avenue Bears will play a preliminary to the Commercial-Spalding county game Thursday night at Ponce de Leon park.

The Bulldogs have lost only one game and that to the Bears some time ago in the 125-pound sandlot leagues. The Bears have lost two games, but the two have the best sandlot record in the state and the winner will have a good claim to the 125-pound state championship.

John Lewis Wins Easy Decision

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—John Henry Lewis easily disposed of the challenge for his light-heavyweight championship offered by Len Harvey tonight when he battered the Briton around and did everything but knock him out in a 15-round bout in Wembley Stadium.

Lewis, weighing 173 1/2 to Harvey's 172, had things all his own way from the third round right up to the finish. He came out unscathed except for some slight damage to his eye, which had been injured in training.

Harvey, meantime, was forced to clinch and cling all through the latter part of the bout and appeared lucky to escape a knockout.

Despite his defeat, Harvey came out ahead of the fight as he promoted it as well as taking part. A crowd of 12,000, one of the largest indoor fight gatherings in London in several years, paid an estimated 15,000 pounds (about $75,000) to see the bout.

The crowd fell just a little short of the record throng of 14,000 which had been predicted. The king, whose presence at the ringside was believed possible, did not attend.

Harvey blamed his defeat on an injured right hand, saying: "It went out of commission in the third round." The two-fisted clouting of the Arizona negro had a great deal to do with it, however. After a couple of slow rounds, Lewis began pounding away with both hands and drove Harvey around the ring.

A Minnesota win over Iowa at Gopher homecoming has become almost a tradition. The Gophers have trounced the Iowans on the festive occasions by such scores as 33-0, 38-0 and 34-0, 52-0.

BULLDOGS HAVE FULL STRENGTH FOR WAVE GAME

Coach Mehre Praises His Boys for Performance Against Florida.

By Felton Gordon.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—Georgia's football contenders, appropriately dubbed "the bulldogs of the new" after Saturday's comeback victory over Florida, dug in for Tulane with a light drill this afternoon.

For the first time of the season, Coach Mehre had all his backs lined up ready for action. The offensive should be hitting on all cylinders Saturday as a result.

Praising the play of Coot Vandiver, Coach Mehre indicated that the ex-Marist star has won a position on the regular squad. "Considering that it was his first varsity action, Vandiver played a great game Saturday," the Bulldog mentor commented.

The backfield list is three deep of well-conditioned men at every position at present.

HANDY MAN JONES.

Vandiver's performance against the 'Gators enabled Coach Mehre to shift Jones to fullback permanently. The determined Jones has proved the handiest man on the backfield. He has played fullback, right halfback and called signals during eight games past.

Young, Roddenberry and Miller, quarterbacks, Causey, Anderson and Stevens, left halfbacks; Vandiver, Johnson and Cavan, right halfbacks; Hartman, Green and Jones, fullbacks, compose the list.

Players and coaches alike today were beaming since the triumph over Florida. Practices this week will be more strenuous than last week. A scrimmage is slated for Wednesday afternoon. Punting and pass defense was the focus of the attention of the boys in today's workout after they heard a lecture in which Coach Mehre complimented them upon the "great way in which you acquitted yourselves Saturday."

INJURED RETURN.

Most of the regulars idle Saturday are expected to be ready for play against Tulane. Harry Harman, and Tommy Harvey are certain to return. Roy Gatchell's bad knee may keep him out another week. The effects of the Florida encounter left Bill Hartman with an injured hip. Harry Stevens received a blow in the rib. They may be handicapped this week as a result.

Coach Vernon Smith returned from the Alabama-Tulane game highly impressed by both teams.

When asked if he thought Georgia's chances are better since Tulane lost, Coach Mehre replied: "Tulane will have the same team as before the Alabama game."

Tulane In Shape For Bulldogs.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Tulane University's Green Wave, stunned by the shelling handed them by Alabama, worked out vigorously today for the homecoming game here with Georgia Saturday.

Coach Lowell "Red" Dawson was heartened to discover that his charges came through last week's contest without serious injury.

Steamboat Johnson Visits in Atlanta

Harry (Steamboat) Johnson, one of the most colorful of all sports league umpires and a running mate of Claude Rusk, popular Atlanta boy who last year broke into the Southern league with Johnson, arrived in Atlanta last night for several days visit.

Johnson is connected with a motor transport firm in Memphis, Tenn., and is here to confer with officials of the Atlanta representative of the Memphis firm.

Although the Brown-Holt Cross grid grid, dated back to 1898, the two teams had met only 12 times before this season.

'Kid' Brown Turns Pro; Will Assist Stevenson at Savannah

STATE TITLIST TO APPRENTICE AT OGLETHORPE

Will Apply for Membership in P. G. A. After "Working Up."

By Ralph McGill.

James (Kid) Brown, Georgia's amateur state golf champion, yesterday announced his decision to make golf his profession.

He will leave within the next few days for Savannah, Ga., where he will enter the shop of Frank Stevenson, the popular professional of the splendid 18-hole municipal course and also of the Oglethorpe course.

"I realize there is much more to becoming a golf professional than merely quitting amateur ranks for professional," said Brown. "That is why I want to start as I should. I am beginning as an apprentice assistant in a golf shop under a man whom I consider to be one of the best men in this field. I am going to serve out my apprenticeship and then apply for membership in the P. G. A. I want to start from the ground floor and work up."

WON STATE TITLE.

Kid Brown won the state championship last summer in the tournament held at the Capital City Club. He finished out in front of a fast field and won by a good margin.

He twice won the Southern Inter-scholastic championship while a member of the Tech High golf team and twice won the state interscholastic title as a member of the same team. In the $3,000 Thomasville open last winter he was low amateur. He has scored victories in numerous other tournaments.

Kid Brown has made his own way along a path that hasn't at all been easy and he has made many friends in Atlanta and over the state who will applaud him in his decision to turn professional—and turn in the correct manner.

"LOT TO LEARN"

"I know there is a lot I need to learn and that I'll learn every day as long as I live," he said. "That's why I wanted to start as I am to start—in a shop as an apprentice assistant. I hope to make a success of it."

His departure from amateur ranks means, of course, he will not defend the state title next year. And the state's list of amateurs will lose one of its best performers and one of the finest competitors to appear on the state scene in the future.

The best wishes of his friends go with him to Savannah.

MISS JUDY KING SECOND IN SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—In a bitterly fought duel, Lieutenant J. A. Talbot-Ponsonby, young British army officer, tonight won the international individual military jumping title at the National Horse Show after being carried through four jump-offs by Captain Eduardo Yanez, leader of the Chilean team.

Mounted on Kington, giant bay gelding, Talbot-Ponsonby, 22-year-old, 40 difficult jumps without a mishap to win one of the most exciting military events in the long history of the show before a cheering crowd of more than 12,000.

A. B. Dick, master of the Dickson field farm, of Gurnee, Ill., and Frances Dodge, 22-year-old Rochester, Mich., sportsman, ended the night all-square in their blue ribbon rivalry with nine victories each.

After Highland Cora had won earlier in the day, the Dickson horses came back to take two blues and the lead at the night session but Society Barrimore from Miss Dodge's barn carried up a victory over a large field of three-gaited saddle mares over 142 hands in the final event of the day to deadlock the count.

Judy King, of Atlanta, winner of six blues, bid for both classes but could do no better than second with La La Success against Melbourne Swell and third in the tandem event. Second in the latter went to Adrian Van Sinderen's Glenholme farm, of Washington, Conn.

RIVERSIDE EYES G. I. A. A. CROWN

GAINEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—After continuing a victorious march toward the championship of the G. I. A. A. with an impressive 30-to-6 win from Commercial High, the Riverside Military cadets began pointing today for their game here Friday with Savannah High.

Coach Red Sanders views this approaching battle as a crucial spot on his team's state. The Savannah griders have a good record, having lost only to Boys' High and Lanier High. Each contest was dropped by the margin of six points.

The Riverside coaches are therefore prepping their men thoroughly for the game and hope to have them at their peak for the Savannah team is pointing to the game as an opportunity to avenge their last year's 34-to-6 defeat by the cadets.

Tech's Apple-by-a-Day May Keep Doctor Away

That Is, Away From Experts, When They Pick All-Star Fullback This Season.

By Jack Troy.

An Apple-by-a-day may keep the doctor away when the experts get out the pencils and begin figuring on a fullback for all-so-and-so honors in Dixie and other sections of this broad and complex land.

Why an Apple-by-a-day? Well, if for no other reason than Tech's 167-pound fullback has carried the football for an average of some six and two-thirds yards—that's almost seven, mind you—in the seven games the Jackets have played to date.

That kind of Apple-by-a-day ought to keep the doctor away. It has not, in some instances, kept defeat away for obvious reasons.

For instance, the pigskin were capable of articulation, it probably would crown "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginia" when meeting snuggly against the mauling breast of Harry Appleby.

On account of Appleby's penchant of totting the ball into the next county a large part of the time when the going is toughest.

His record is interesting, if not actually amazing. Here it is: Presbyterian—He warmed up against the Blue Stockings by averaging five yards per carry. Seawater—He was a warmer against the Tigers. He gained 83 yards in five tries—an average of 16.6 yards.

Kentucky—He averaged five yards a carry. Duke—Four yards a carry. Auburn—Five yards a carry.

If any fullback in the south has been more consistent than that, the information will be most welcome.

Appleby has scored 30 points this year, besides ramming the ball into scoring position on many other occasions. He has scored touchdowns against Auburn, Kentucky, Duke, Seawater and Presbyterian.

OUTSTANDING FULLBACK. It was in the Auburn game, particularly, that Appleby stamped himself as, perhaps, the south's outstanding fullback. Auburn's line is as good as a line as will be found in Dixie football.

And Appleby recognized this undoubted fact by making a rip-roaring show. He had it all over Auburn's Wilton Kilgore, who has been recognized as one of the leading fullbacks. And undoubtedly is.

So an Apple-by-a-day, or a Saturday, may keep the doctor away, in regard to the headaches in prospect for the experts.

A glance at the accompanying picture reveals Harry Appleby wearing glasses. He uses thick-lensed glasses in practice because he has some difficulty seeing without them. Sometimes he wears them in a game.

FAST FOOT. But with or without glasses, he can see a hole. And, seeing it, dart through the opening with a contradictory power, in relation to his size. Appleby is, of course, fast foot. He has a world of leg drive. That's where the power comes from.

In addition to his plunging, "App," the boys call him, is a deadly tackler; a hard blocker, and a neat ball handler on plays.

He's an all-so-and-so, and that is meant in only the most complimentary fashion. If you think differently, ask Auburn, Kentucky, Duke, Vandy, Seawater and Presbyterian. They might agree.

SUSPEND JOCKEYS. BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Three jockeys riding at the Pimlico track were suspended today for alleged unfair tactics. The trio included Jackie Westrope, sensational rider of the current fall season, Eddie Arcaro and Jimmy Stunt.

First and second place ribbons will be awarded winners in the male puppy, female puppy, male adult and female adult class. A ribbon and an engraved silver loving cup will be awarded the best of each breed. The best of show will receive the beautiful Zach Cravey cup.

Ed Lindsay, well-known field trial and bench show judge, will be in charge of all events. Judging of beagles, cockers and Irish setters will get under way at 10 a. m., while the judging of English setters, pointers and best of show will begin at 2 p. m.

All sportsmen are invited to enter their favorite dogs as judging will be based from a shooting dog standpoint.

Star Lynx Tackle Better After Injury

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Bob Lee, Southwestern right tackle, who suffered a slight brain concussion when he was struck on the head during Saturday's game with Birmingham-Southern, made rapid recovery today.

Coach Shorty Probst said Lee would be removed from the hospital to his home today. He may be well enough to play Friday night against Loyola (Louisiana) here.

PURPLE STARS ON INJURY LIST FOR FRIDAY TILT

SmithiePlaster, Goree Sabo, Orenstein, Shelton, Webb, Perkerson Hurt

By Roy White.

Tech High and Boys' High opened practice for their annual battle Friday night at Ponce de Leon park, with care and painstaking, on their respective fields Monday afternoon.

And both coaches were bordering on the nervous breakdown stage, for fear that an ace member of their squad will be injured during the week.

Boys' High planned a scrimmage for today and Wednesday, with fear and trembling, for Goree, Orenstein and Sabo, in the backfield, Webb, Shelton and Captain Perkerson in the line are not in the best of condition. The injured stars will not scrimmage this week.

Plaster, an outstanding end on the Tech High team, is injured and will miss all rough work this week.

THEY'LL PLAY.

But like all other injured prep football players, the entire hospital list will be cleared, long before game time Friday night.

Both Tech High and Boys' High have planned a couple of secret workouts this week, but the site and times for the practices have not been announced.

Tech High will hold its toughest workout of the week this afternoon. It will be one of the last of the year on Henry Grady field for Tech High and Boys' High Friday night and then closes the season on November 20 at Augusta with Richmond Academy.

Following Friday's game, the Purple will rest a couple of days before starting work for the final game of the season Thanksgiving Day at Miami, Fla.

Tech High's work Monday afternoon was mainly blocking and tackling with Tolbert and Lewis working with the ends and backfield and Tom Alexander working with the linemen.

More of the fundamentals will be stressed this afternoon.

WORK ON PASSES.

Boys' High spent the entire afternoon working on passes, both offensively and defensively. The Purple reserve squad worked on Tech High plays which will be run against the varsity this afternoon.

And with the city championship at stake and a chance at the state high school championship, both teams will cut loose with everything they have in an effort to win Friday night.

Boys' High's last defeat was at the hands of Tech High at the end of the 1935 season. Since that time Tech's Purple have won three games and have been tied a couple of times.

Tech High last year suffered its most disastrous season and with many of its stars out of the lineup, they are showing a decided improvement, particularly in their offense.

Decatur and Griffin To Clash Thursday.

Meanwhile Decatur High, G. M. A. Commercial, Russell and Marist are speeding up preparations for their games this week.

Decatur and Griffin will open the week's warfare at 8 o'clock Thursday night at Decatur.

It will be homecoming night and all four teams will play under the lights to communicate with O. L. Amsler before Wednesday night for reservations.

Purples Sought For Late Games.

Boys' High, undefeated city, state and southern championship football team is again very much in demand for post-season games.

Decatur and Griffin are in our way, before any communications about post-season games can be considered," Coach Doyal said Monday.

Last year Boys' High voted to end the season with the Miami game, and should the Purples go through the 1936 season undefeated, then post-season play will probably be left to another vote.

Jacksonville is anxious to have Boys' High play a post-season game there early in December.

Allen Military Academy, of Texas, has asked for a game here, but Boys' High nor any other Atlanta team will not consider a post-season game here.

Down the Alley

With four different inter-company bowling leagues active on the downtown maple drives this afternoon, around 4:30 o'clock afternoon activities vie for bowling honors with the peak business that is registered in the evening.

The Retail Credit Company has two leagues that are scheduled to open their bowling activities at the downtown maple drives at 4:45 this afternoon. In one league there will be 12 teams of young ladies bowling at the little mapledome. In the other league four teams of men will be active. That is 16 teams from this one organization.

However, 16-team leagues are not as scarce as it may seem to the casual observer for the Coca-Cola Company has a 16-team league that is scheduled at the same hour on Tuesday. This will be their third week of competitive play.

The Rogers Store ladies have four teams of young ladies that roll at 5:30 o'clock and the Sinclair Refining Company has six teams of young men bowling at 4:30 o'clock. All in all, there will be 42 teams bowling in the late afternoon. And those 42 teams will be replaced by as many more at 7:30 o'clock each Tuesday evening.

The popular vogue for inter-company bowling leagues this season is to take names of the various products of the company for team names. Sinclair Refining Company uses Credit Cards, Dinosaurs, H. C. Olinale, Keosauqua and Pennsylvania for their teams. Insurance and Identification. Credit uses various forms of service for their ladies' league and the Coca-Cola league uses names connected with advertising, sales and service of their company.

Officials of several of the large companies are encouraging bowling as a splendid form of recreation for their employees and believe that the weekly get-together one day of each week is of benefit to the men and women of the organization. It gives them mental and physical relaxation.

Star Lynx Tackle Better After Injury

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Bob Lee, Southwestern right tackle, who suffered a slight brain concussion when he was struck on the head during Saturday's game with Birmingham-Southern, made rapid recovery today.

Coach Shorty Probst said Lee would be removed from the hospital to his home today. He may be well enough to play Friday night against Loyola (Louisiana) here.

ART BUCK HOLDS SCORING HONORS WITH 102 POINTS

King, of Hobart, Second, With 76; Davis Is Fifth.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—It's going to take a lot of catching up by any other ambitious touchdown-maker to take the nation's high-scoring football honors away from Art Buck, the high-geared quarterback of Carroll, of Wisconsin, this season.

Buck brought his total for the campaign to 102 points Saturday by adding a touchdown and four extra points as Carroll closed its season, undefeated and untied.

His nearest rival, as the campaign heads down the stretch, is Fred King, Hobart fullback and eastern hope, who went on a rampage as the upstate New York College trampled Buffalo, to score five touchdowns and an extra point and bring his total to 75 points.

Not only did he regain the sectional lead he lost several weeks ago, but he advanced the top eastern score from fifth place to second on the national list.

Along with him as newcomers in the northwest are Dave Davis, Southern California quarterback, and Lloyd Cardwell, Nebraska's halfback. Davis advanced to a tie with Ed Goddard, of Washington State, for the Pacific Coast conference lead, each with 30 points. Cardwell took over the Big Six pace with 30 points, passing Howard Cleveland, of Kansas State.

Konemann Third In Southeastern.

By The Associated Press.

Bob Davis' total as individual scoring leader in the Southeastern conference is unchanged for the third straight week, but his 66 points left him with a comfortable margin over an otherwise closely bunched field.

All chief threats to the Kentucky halfback increased their totals Saturday, but none added more than a touchdown. Joe Kilgore, Alabama halfback, in second place, bouted four extra points in his team's 34-7 victory over Tulane, but it left him 24 points behind Bob Davis.

Bill Mattis, of Tulane, scored his fourth touchdown in two weeks to remain in a tie with Georgia Tech's Dutch Konemann for third position. Five other gridmen just back of the two leaders also scored a touchdown each.

The leaders, including all with 24 points or more:

DE-HOPPING PROPOSAL.

The "de-hopping" proposal has strong support from the records of the last season which place the pitchers and fielders on the short end of the deal.

A comparison of the team records this year and last follows:

Team	1935	1936
Runs	6,056	19,935
Hits	12,995	11,624
Doubles	2,072	1,979
Home runs	429	347
Total bases	16,374	15,334
Errors	1,806	1,714

Other noteworthy games decided in this manner included Tulane over Mississippi, North Carolina over New York University, Purdue over Carnegie, Chicago over Wisconsin, Florida over Maryland and George Washington over Wake Forest.

The rather infrequent safety also has decided the issue in 16 games this season, several of them major conflicts.

It was an insignificant—at the time it occurred—safety that finally settled the doom of Duke's Rose-Bowl-smelling Blue Devils before Tennessee's rampaging Volunteers, by 15 to 13. A pair of safeties figured in the Dartmouth 11-to-7 victory over Yale.

Directors of Atlantic Company Under Revised Set-up

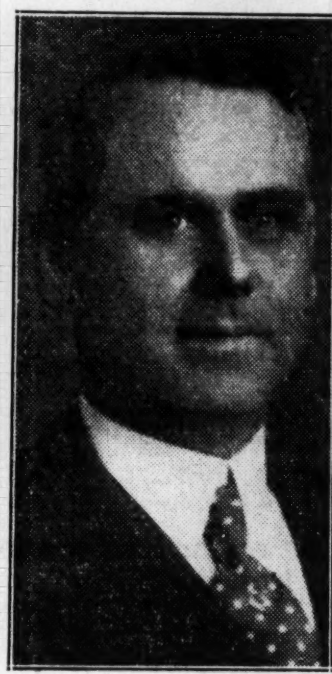

THOMAS K. GLENN.

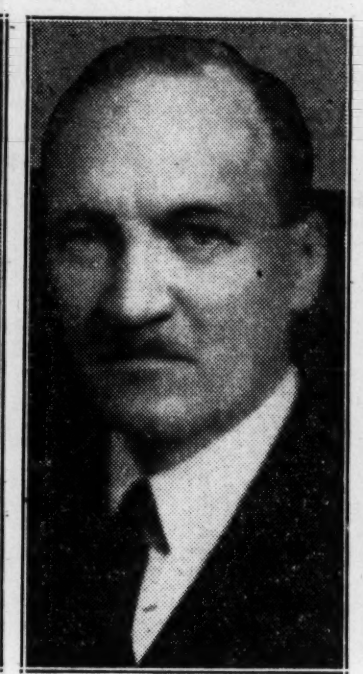

C. H. CANDLER.

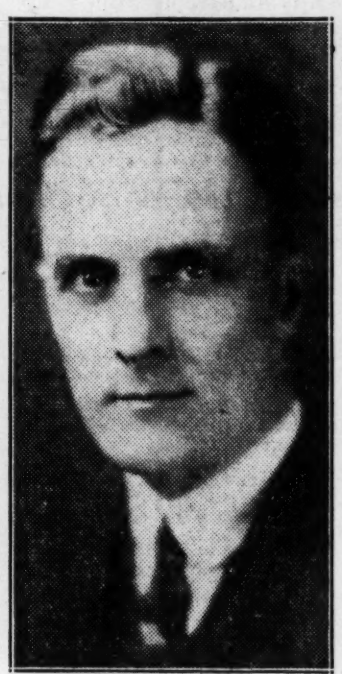

HUGHES SPALDING.

F. W. BEAZLEY.

W. E. MITCHELL.

R. W. COURTS JR.

Six of the directors of the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company, for reorganization plans were approved yesterday at a stockholders' meeting, are shown above. All of whom will serve on the board of the new company, to be known as the Atlantic Company, as will F. G. Gordon, who also is a member of the board.

Bobby Breen, Boy Tenor, Is Starred at Georgia

Bobby Breen, the 8-year-old boy tenor who has thrilled millions of radio listeners with a voice perfect unusually early, makes his cinema debut in the new melodrama, "Let's Sing Again," at the Georgia theater Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Singing since he was four years old, Bobby has been developed to a degree of excellence which Dr. Mario Marafioti compares with that of Caruso for attractiveness. This lyric tenor voice which Dr. Marafioti, coach of Grace Moore and other singing stars, has discovered in Bobby, was possessed by the immortal Caruso at the same age.

"Let's Sing Again," as its title implies, is a dramatic production laden with melody, moments of comedy and an abundance of heart throbs. The comedy is explained by the presence of Henry Armetta, the Italian comedian of the tilted head and the garbled English, in a strong, featured role.

Distributed by R-K-O Radio Pictures, "Let's Sing Again" was directed by Kurt Neumann, with music direction by the well-known composer and leader, Hugo Riesenfeld. In the supporting cast are George Houston, Vivienne Osborne, Inez Courtney, Grant Withers, Lucien Littlefield, Richard Carle, Ann Doran and Clay Clement.

$2,000,000 TO BE PAID FOR ATLANTIC ICE, COAL

class "B" stock a book value of $14 to $17 per share.

Officials said the new issue of 6 per cent preferred stock will begin to bear dividends from January 1, 1937, and the dividends will be payable quarterly beginning April 1, 1937.

Era of Development.

"The problem of management of this company for five years or longer," an official said, "has been to diversify its business, made necessary by reason of the decline of the ice industry."

Reorganization of the company will become effective when the amendment has been secured to the company's charter by an appropriate order from Fulton superior court sometime during the early part of December, counsel for the organization said.

Those of the company's present officers and directors, who are residents of Georgia, will continue to operate the company and formulate its policies. The chief offices will remain in Atlanta in the company's building on the Washington street viaduct.

Scope of Operation.

The Atlantic Ice and Coal Company operates in six southern states, and where formerly its entire income was derived from sales of ice now less than 40 per cent of the income comes from this source, and officials anticipated, they told stockholders, that in 1937 more than 75 per cent of the company's income will be from sources other than ice sales. Stockholders were told the gross income for the company this year will be in excess of $10,000,000 and in 1937 it is anticipated at above $11,000,000.

There are more than 2,000 holders of the first preferred 7-1/2 per cent stock. They will have the control of the company under the new setup. Practically all of them live in Georgia and a majority of them reside in Atlanta.

Directors of the company, most of them large preferred stockholders, are F. W. Beazley, Hughes Spalding, R. W. Courts Jr., C. H. Candler, Thomas K. Glenn, W. E. Mitchell and F. G. Gordon.

Present Officers.

Officers of the company, who will continue to serve under the new organization, are F. W. Beazley, president; A. B. Pope and J. R. Dinwiddie, vice presidents; F. G. Gordon, vice president and secretary; C. H. Wessman, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. All officers of the company who are Georgians will continue in their present positions, it was announced.

The Atlantic Ice and Coal Company operates more than 50 branches throughout Georgia, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida. It operates breweries in Atlanta, Chattanooga, Norfolk and Charlotte, and has one under construction in Orlando, Fla.

No plans for further expansion were announced following the stockholders' meeting yesterday, but it was indicated that the company would be making fields other than the ice industry.

In speaking of the reorganization of the company, President Beazley said holders of each class of stock would benefit by the plan and pointed out the increased book value of both preferred and common stock.

All recommendations of the directors were ratified by two-thirds in favor of each class of stockholders yesterday and the plan will become effective as soon as the charter amendment is secured and the necessary number of

Lawrence's 'Rubaiyat' Auctioned for $1,250

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The second oldest known copy of Omar Khayyam, 25 leaves of gold-sprinkled paper, brought 250 pounds ($1,250) at an auction sale in Sotheby's salesrooms today.

The volume was a feature of a sale at which a varied collection of letters and manuscripts by Colonel T. E. Lawrence (Lawrence of Arabia) were to be offered tomorrow.

The Omar Khayyam, which was owned by Muhammad Saleem, was brought to England from Lahore, India, five years ago.

Except for the Ouseley manuscript which was dated 1400 and now reposes in the Bodleian library at Oxford, scholars say it is the oldest copy known.

Communists Prevented From Breaking Up Congress of Popular Party.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Fourteen police and several Communist sympathizers were injured tonight when Communists attempted to attack a congress of Jacques Doriot's French popular party in Saint-Denis.

The fights resulted when Communists tried to break through police lines around the congress hall.

Leaders of the Communists in the attempted push toward the Municipal theater, where Doriot and thousands of his followers met in the party's first national assembly, were seized by plainclothes detectives and busied off.

The injuries were suffered when one group of 800 Communists forced their way through the first line of guardsmen and surged toward the theater but were pushed back by a second line.

Merchants pulled down steel shutters over their shop windows.

Two thousand Communists gathered near the theater singing the International and demanding Doriot's resignation as mayor of Saint-Denis, a Paris workers' suburb.

Doriot, whom some have called the coming French dictator, is a former Communist.

His party seeks to combine what it considers to be the best features of Communism with intense nationalism.

17-Year-Old Cabin Boy Recites How Wave Crushed Life Boat, Threw Him Into Water and He Was Borne to Another Boat Where He Crouched for 12 Hours.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Seventeen-year-old Fritz Roethke, sole survivor of the 40 hands who were aboard the Hamburg-American motorship "Isis" which foundered and sank some 200 miles off Land's End, England, tonight told the story of the vessel's loss.

The youth, who spent 12 hours in an open boat in which he crouched in terror in the darkness before he was picked up by the steamer Westernland, told his story haltingly to the commander of the rescue ship, who relayed it to the Associated Press.

"At 6 p. m. Sunday we were all mustered on the boat deck when No. 1 hatch was smashed in and the sea entered," the cabin boy of the ill-fated ship said.

"The captain shouted above the storm and said if bulkhead No. 2 would hold out we could keep afloat until morning."

"At 8 p. m. a big breaker came approved unanimously, to the board on the eve of its meeting this afternoon."

The principal business slated for this afternoon's session is disposition of an administration ruling that Margaret Raptis, 12, student at Formwalt school, can not return to her classes until she agrees to salute and pledge allegiance to the flag.

Ernest J. Brewer and D. M. Threlk, commissioners from the seventh and tenth wards, respectively, and the school administration were specifically named in the association's commutation.

"Hours and hours it seemed I held on. Up and down the waves tossed me."

"Then I saw a ship. I waved a hand and the next thing I remember I found myself in the Westernland's hospital."

After picking up Roethke, the Westernland, which had ploughed through raging seas in answer to the last distress calls of the "Isis," abandoned search for the 4,454-ton vessel.

Passengers on the Queen Mary, whose course was altered in answer to the "Isis' first SOS, spent an uncomfortable night in the heavy seas.

VIRGINIA PARK TO LIVE WITH FOSTER PARENTS

ROME, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Virginia Park, who was 18 years old when she was adopted by Rev. and Mrs. David Park, of Birmingham, Ala., her foster parents, and to come to Georgia for visits with her mother, Mrs. John Wesley Knight, and other relatives.

Virginia's father and mother had separated when she was born, and the Parks adopted her when she was a few weeks old, an uncle explained.

Mrs. Knight yesterday left for her old home near Cartersville in Bartow county after Knight obtained work there.

HIGHER WAGE DRIVE IN TEXTILES URGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Thomas F. McMahon, international president of the United Textile Workers of America, in a statement tonight called upon all textile workers "to organize their forces in the demand for wage increase, reduction of hours and improved conditions of employment."

"If the employers refuse to grant some measure of economic security and employment," he said, "we propose to take matters into our own hands."

McMahon added that the U. T. W. executive council would meet this week and immediately afterwards "we will carry out our plan of action."

3 NEGROES SEIZED IN ASHLEY SLAYING

Everglades; Seven Persons Now Held.

Following a trail that led from the bright lights of Atlanta's negro section to West Palm Beach and thence 58 miles into the swamps of Florida's Everglades, Detectives A. Douglas Poole and D. L. Taylor arrested Adessa Jackson, 19; Noble Adams, 22; and Ruth Hilliard, 20, negroes, in the Florida swamps and returned them to Atlanta last night on charges of suspicion of murder in connection with the fatal stabbing of C. V. Ashley, of 944 Piedmont avenue.

The arrest of the trio, made in a section where alligators and rattlesnakes were frequently seen scurrying to cover or slithering off into the swamps, brings the total number held in Ashley's death to seven.

Mr. Ashley was found last Tuesday morning in an alley off Rawson street stabbed to death. Robbery is believed by police to have been the motive.

Mrs. Allison Heads Agnes Lee U. D. C.

At the annual meeting of Agnes Lee Chapter U. D. C. the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. H. Allison; first vice president, Mrs. J. C. Johnson; second vice president, Mrs. T. M. Griffin; secretary, Mrs. C. F. Stallings; treasurer, Mrs. A. L. Wade; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. C. Jackson; historian, Mrs. J. M. Toomey; registrar, Miss Susie Johnson; librarian, Mrs. A. J. Woodruff; scrapbook compiler, Miss Maggie Webb; recorder of crosses, Mrs. W. Cole Jones; director of Children of Confederacy, Mrs. Carl Hudgins; parliamentarian, Mrs. W. H. S. Hamilton. Mesdames C. A. Virgin, J. C. Johnson and W. Cole Jones were elected trustees. In recognition of the services which she has rendered to the chapter Mrs. Guy Webb was made honorary life president.

The chapter was represented at the state convention in Thomasville by Mrs. J. H. Allison and Mrs. J. C. Johnson, delegates, and Mrs. W. P. Smith, member of the state board. Mrs. Adams, of Oklahoma City, Is Attractive Guest of Mrs. Lowance

Mrs. Lynn Adams, of Oklahoma City, Okla., is the attractive guest of Mrs. Mason Lowance and during her stay here will be the central figure at a series of social affairs. On Wednesday she will share honors with Mrs. Philip Etheridge, a recent bride, at the luncheon to be given by Mrs. George Battey and Mrs. Grady Poole at the East Lake Country Club. Mrs. Etheridge is the former Miss Mary Dwyer, of Lockport, N. Y.

On Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Shackelford will be hosts for Mrs. Adams the exact nature of the affair to be announced later. On next Monday, Mrs. Adams will be the guest of Mrs. Lowance at a luncheon to be given by Mrs. Lowance at her home for Mrs. Etheridge, who also for her recent marriage was Miss Sara McCreary, of Kendallville, Ind.

A feature of the afternoon will be the program presented by Mrs. Adams who is a well-known reader. She will be remembered by many Atlantans as Miss Catherine Garvey when she visited Mrs. Lowance two years ago and took a prominent part in Studio Club activities. She has done outstanding work in the Little Theater movement, and received her masters degree in this work from the University of Wisconsin.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sunday.—Saturday I paid my first visit of this autumn to Mrs. Vernon, Mme. Jusserrand and young Mrs. Fiske, from Iowa, who were our guests, went with us.

I never tire of the view of the river or the charm of the house and grounds. On this occasion Colonel Dodge himself met us. Mrs. Jusserrand and her husband, who was France's ambassador to this country for 22 years, knew Colonel Dodge well and watched his development of this historic spot with interest.

There are always new things to be seen. Mme. Jusserrand was particularly interested in the museum and pieces of china made in France for President Washington, which are now on exhibition there. The last thing we did was to visit Washington's tomb, for the sake of sentiment. And Mrs. Jusserrand recalled our visit there during the war, with Marshal Joffre and Mr. Viviani.

Then home for a press conference and an official luncheon before the ceremonies in Rock Creek park. It was a gray day, but it did not rain. Many people remembered this diplomat, writer, and most interesting human being, Jean Jules Jusserand, and they gathered to see the unveiling of the American memorial to his memory. It is an unadorned bench in granite and the ceremonies were simple but very touching.

For Mme. Jusserrand the day must have been filled with emotion, particularly when we came to the park where they had walked together so often. Yet, Mme. Jusserrand remained her calm, sweet, thoughtful self, and never forgot a kindly word or a nod of recognition to old friends and acquaintances.

It is long training, or qualities that one is born with, which make such self-control possible? In any case, it is the result we hope for from good birth and breeding.

This morning my husband and I went to church, and Bishop Fiske preached a good sermon on the text, "What is a Man Profited, If He Shall Gain the Whole World and Lose His Own Soul?" One of the things he said was that most of us were afraid to face our own souls, to face ourselves alone. Sooner later, he added, we have to do it, and in the end what we are is more important than what we have.

A good thing to think about now and then when acquisitive moods come upon us!

Major General and Mrs. Marshall-Cornwall lunched with us today and made me feel closer to the European situation than I have felt before. It is curious how you become engrossed in things immediately around you and almost forget how some action in a far-away spot may upset the situation in your own little corner of the world.

"NOW I FEEL FULL OF PEP!"

Say these happy women

Is periodic pain dragging you down? Do monthly upsets leave you with no ambition to work or play? Next month try Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets.

Mrs. E. Lavery, 224 State Street, Middletown, Pa., says, "I had cramps and was always running at my period but since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets I am feeling full of pep. I used to dread the time but now I need not worry. They took the pain away. I would recommend them to anybody."

Was Greatly Relieved

"Every month I thought I was going to die with pain. Used to stay in bed at least one day. I tried your Tablets and was greatly relieved." Mrs. Gertrude Heiser, 1002 W. Huntington St., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Best Cough Remedy You Ever Used Is Home-made

Double-quick Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs than this simple home mixture gives. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made. It beats anything you ever tried. It has a remarkable three-fold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial affections. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Council Meeting Set for Saturday

Mrs. T. E. Pate, department president, auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, has called a council meeting of the department for Saturday at 10 o'clock in the Wincoff hotel.

League of Women Voters Plan Many Interesting Activities

On Wednesday the board of the Atlanta League of Women Voters entertained presidents and citizenship-legislation chairmen of Atlanta Parent-Teacher Associations, and the principals of Atlanta schools at a tea at 3:30 o'clock at league headquarters in the Forsyth building. Honor guests will be Mrs. Charles Carter, president of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Charles Roe, field secretary of the national congress; Mrs. J. Elmer Slider, president of the Atlanta council, and Mrs. Ira Jarrell, president of the Atlanta Schoolteachers' Association.

Board members will act as hostesses and refreshments will be served by the chairman, Mrs. Herman Kulman. An interesting program will be given by league members and the officers hope they will have the opportunity to greet these important women personally.

The department of government and education of the league is sponsoring a series of meetings on education, led by the chairman, Mrs. Herman Kulman. The meeting on Monday will be at league headquarters at 10 o'clock. Mrs. A. E. Sanderson, of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, will talk on "Co-education."

Sanderson has made a thorough study of the subject, and is equipped to give an intelligent discussion. Mrs. J. H. Bowden will outline the practical and financial side of installing co-education in Atlanta schools. Mrs. Sanderson will give a complete bibliography, so that at the following meeting when she will lead a round-table discussion on the subject, members of the group will be able to take an active part. The object of these studies is that, after the required year of study, the group will be able to make recommendations to the annual meeting of the league. Mrs. Kulman invites groups, their friends and Parent-Teacher Association members to attend.

Mrs. Logan Bleckley Jr., member of the board of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, entertains her group at a luncheon and book review on Tuesday at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. H. Smaw, 10 Palisades road, N. E. Mrs. Robert Church Jr. will give the book review on "No Place Like Home."

Mrs. James Selva, chairman of the group sponsored by the department of child welfare and economic welfare meets with her group on Tuesday at 10:30 o'clock in Room 290 of the old telephone building at 160 Pryor street, S. W.

Mrs. Horace Tenor, returned from a vacation at a luncheon and book review on Tuesday at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. H. Smaw, 10 Palisades road, N. E. Mrs. Robert Church Jr. will give the book review on "No Place Like Home."

King Horse Will Reign Friday In Columbus at First Annual Show

By Sally Forth.

KING HORSE is scheduled to reign in Columbus on Friday of this week when the Chattahoochee Valley Saddle Horse Association presents its first annual horse show under sponsorship of that city's Junior League. Blooded horses throughout the south are being groomed for the Columbus show, which will assemble a throng of sports-loving visitors who, with Columbus socialites, will occupy boxes encircling the tank ring.

When the sleek, prancing animals enter the ring Atlanta will be represented by several prominent riders, well known for their horsemanship, and winners of many blue ribbons in southern shows. Mrs. Virginia Robinson and her daughter, Joy, who captured several blue ribbons in Atlanta's show last spring, will no doubt add other laurels to the Gate City's crown when they show their three-gaited mounts, "Spun Gold" and "So Gay." Sally recalls that they won the blues in the horsemanship class in which they rode in the Atlanta show, as well as capturing the blue ribbon in the parent-child class. Doubtless Joy's excellent riding is largely due to the training received from her mother, as Mrs. Robinson is considered one of the south's most skilled horsewomen.

Billy Williamson, young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Williamson, will also represent Atlanta at the Columbus show. Billy will ride his three-gaited pony, "Peg-o-My-Heart," which has won several ribbons for Billy. Although young in years, Billy sits his mount like an old timer and always receives enthusiastic applause from the spectators as he circles the ring and puts his pony through the gaits called by the judges. Which reminds Sally that Atlanta's own Frank Adair will be one of the judges at the Columbus show. Mr. Adair is noted throughout the country for his knowledge of horses and his fairness in judging a show. He returned a few days ago from New York, where he was one of the judges at the Madison Square Garden show. Mr. Adair will be assisted in judging the Columbus show by Miss Elizabeth Kittrell, of Mobile, also a recognized authority on horses and horsemanship.

When Lady Nancy Astor, the distinguished Virginian who is a member of English parliament, entertained at a dance given for Virginia Brand at the Country Club in Charlottesville, Va., she was amazed that the belles and beaux arrived at such a late hour. Lady Astor proceeded to tell her young friends that the custom of being late is a silly one.

She said: "The origin of the custom of being late has been traced to Spain, and look at the mess that country is in. The custom spread to New York, but never did I think it would ever permeate as far as my native state of Virginia. It is a thoroughly silly custom, and if I should ever return to Virginia again, and be the hostess at a dance for you young people, if any of you arrive late I shall personally turn you over my knee. Don't let it happen again."

Lady Astor was applauded just as much as if she had delivered an oration on the floor of the house of Commons. She delivered her remarks to her young guests when they gathered around her to say good-night.

WORD comes from the national capital that Washington society chose "Gone With the Wind" as the source of its characters for the annual gay nineties tucky ball given Saturday evening in the garden of the Mayflower by Mrs. William Laird Dunlop Jr., Scarlett O'Hara, the dashing Rhett Butler, and a dozen others of Margaret Mitchell's like-like characters were among the guests present.

The tucky ball was started eight years ago and ever since has been the first big party of the season, assembling the current debutantes, post-debts, and bachelors. This year the guests arrived masked, removing their dominoes at the supper hour and revealing their identity.

The pages of history were turned back past the gay nineties to the War Between the States and reconstruction days. Prizes were awarded by popular vote for the most authentic and amusing costumes worn.

A number of smart dinner parties were given before the ball, and debutantes came from Chicago, Cincinnati, New York and Baltimore for the brilliant affair.

Dr. and Mrs. Hoke Are Honor Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alston were hosts at dinner on Sunday at their home, Woodville, on Andrews drive, in compliment to Dr. and Mrs. Michael Hoke, who recently returned from Warm Springs to re-establish their residence here.

Covers were laid for Dr. and Mrs. Hoke, Judge and Mrs. Shepard Bryan, Mrs. William Healey Sr., James Alexander, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Pavlin, and the hosts.

Miss Heiskell Is Lone Debutante In Memphis, Tenn.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—An 18-year-old girl is the central figure of the fall social whirl here. As the lone Memphis debutante of 1936, pretty Adeline Heiskell, member of a distinguished southern family, calmly faces a host of elaborate parties in her honor.

She will be formally presented to society by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lunsford Vandell Williams, at a reception and ball tomorrow night at the Memphis Country Club. Dozens of parties will follow, with the cream of Memphis social leaders doing her honor.

"Some of the girls who planned to join me decided to wait until next year because the eligible group was small," she said. "They thought there wouldn't be much fun unless there were more of us. I've looked forward to my debut and, alone or not, I know I'm going to enjoy it."

Adeline doesn't smoke. Nor does she drink—even an occasional cocktail, although she does squirm when any one suggests she is "a sissy." She's five feet four and half and weighs 115 pounds.

Adeline hasn't fixed any standards for her escorts, except that she prefers boys with a "sense of humor." She has a sense of humor herself for she points out she can boast to her grandchildren some day, "I was the most popular debutante in Memphis in 1936."

She is the daughter of the late Lamar Heiskell, attorney, and a granddaughter of the late Judge F. H. Heiskell, chancellor of Shelby county and later a member of the Tennessee Court of Appeals. Her mother, the former Ruth McCall, is the daughter of the late Federal Judge John E. McCall and Mrs. McCall, the latter now a resident of Huntington, Tenn.

While Memphis presents a lone debutante, in Atlanta, some 40 old young girls are enjoying some of the most elaborate debutante parties in the South. Smart shows in the Georgia metropolis reported thousands of dollars were being spent for clothes.

Little Rock, Ark., has six debutantes this season, the smallest number in recent years. Eleven Chautauque, Tenn., girls were formally presented to society last week. At Knoxville, Tenn., four girls planned their debut balls.

Nashville, Tenn., will go without a single debutante this year. Twenty-one were presented last season, but social leaders said so few were of proper age this fall that they were waiting for a "full crop" next year.

New Orleans, with 17 debutantes, noted the smallest number in several years but expected others to come out shortly to swell the list. Social leaders said ex-debts will probably share largely in the present season because of the 1936 shortage.

Avondale Estates, Ga., Social News.

Mrs. E. L. Hornbrook, of Fairfield drive in Avondale Estates, is hostess at a luncheon for the Avondale Bridge Club on November 24.

L. H. Ware is ill at his home on Dartmouth avenue.

Mrs. Clayton Kolvoord entertained on Monday at a luncheon for her contract club at her home on Kingston road. The members include Mesdames John Buffington, Bascom Biggers, E. L. Hornbrook, W. C. Harris, Frank Shipp, W. P. Melton, Gladys Stankler, T. R. Buel and McCoy Van Deventer.

Mrs. F. F. Grutner, a former resident of Avondale Estates, is in the Calhoun hospital at Atlanta, Ga., recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

McCoys VanDeventer returned home on Sunday evening from a trip to Detroit, Mich.

Miss Marshall Tillman, of Bennettsville, S. C., and Mrs. Stanley Brown, of Albany, Ga., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lilly on Berkeley road.

Miss Eloise Simpson is ill at Emory hospital, where she underwent an appendectomy last week.

Mrs. A. A. Baumgardner entertained the Avon Club at luncheon last Thursday.

Dr. and Mrs. O. S. Walker entertained on Tuesday evening with an election party.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Watts, of Miami, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Biggers.

Miss Chapman Weds Mr. Hardman.

The marriage of Miss Helen Louise Chapman and Eldridge Jackson Hardman, took place Sunday at 12:30 o'clock at the Peachtree Road Presbyterian church, with the Rev. Eugene T. Wilson officiating.

Mr. J. Clarence Matthews, organist, presented a musical program. The altar decorations featured a background of palms and ferns, and baskets filled with pastel-colored dahlias and gladioli. Adding a note of sentiment were the candelabra used on either side of the choir loft, which were used in the old First Baptist church at the marriage of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hill Chapman.

Ushers were Fred Parker Jr., Charles McCraw, Jack Harris and Ben Hill Chapman Jr., brother of the bride. The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Chapman, was her sister's only attendant, and wore Burgundy velvet, worn with matching accessories and a shoulder spray of Talisman roses and valley lilies.

The bride entered alone and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Pearson Oxford. The bride's blond beauty was enhanced by her costume of coronation blue velvet, made with a high neckline and featuring shirring across the front and back of the bodice. Her accessories were a matching shade and her only ornament was a brooch, a family heirloom. Her flowers were white roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Chapman, mother of the bride, was attired in black velvet, trimmed in rhinestone buttons, and her flowers were Talisman roses and freesias. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman entertained at a tea at their home on North Highland drive, honoring the bridal couple.

Miss Robena Shaw, Mrs. David Dordard and Miss Margaret Chapman assisted in entertaining. Miss Thelie Heiskell served punch, and Miss Dorothy Chapman kept the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardman will reside at 1787 McLendon avenue when they return from their wedding trip. The bride traveled in black crepe, trimmed with white, and the black cost was collared in fox fur.

For Mrs. Wallace.

Mrs. Stewart Wallace was honor guest at the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. J. O. Wynne at the Piedmont Driving Club. Covers were laid for six guests who were invited to meet Mrs. Wallace, who has lived abroad for nine years.

BEAL FOR STOCKS BATTER WAY TO NEW HIGH MARKS

Second Broadest Market in History Sees Rails, Specialties in Demand.

Daily Stock Summary.

Dow-Jones Averages.

WHAT STOCKS DID.

By FREDERICK GARNER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Although encountering considerable resistance today, the stock market closed with a few new high prices.

It was the second broadest market in the history of the stock exchange.

Issues were up 2 points at the close, with a few new high prices.

Business news, on the whole, was still cheerful.

Brokers reported much switching from stocks that have advanced sharply.

Steel, copper, and iron ore were among the specialties in demand.

At the same time the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated current mill operations of 7.4 per cent of capacity.

Encouraging freight and passenger traffic reports revived interest in the expensive Christmas spending in retail stores.

Higher earnings and dividends spurred other shares on their forward silver boost by a jump of 6 1/2 points.

Lesser advances were scored by Santa Fe, 79, New York Central and Erie, 10, Southern Railway, 10, and Southern Railway, 10.

After a brief decline, the market

closed with a few new high prices.

United States Smelting reflected the silver boost by a jump of 6 1/2 points.

High-Grade Bonds Register New Peaks in Lighter Trading.

Daily Bond Averages.

By STEPHEN DICKINSON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Extensive offerings of French issues and new peaks for high-grade bonds captured trading attention in an active market today.

A roundup in French bonds was highlighted by a gain of 3 1/2 points for the day at 163. These bonds would be paid at the old rate.

French Government stamps added

8 at 138. Paris Orleans Railroad added

5 1/2 at 108 and numerous other issues were up 2 to 4 1/2 points.

Other foreign obligations to score included Italian government and

Brussels bonds, which added 1 point each.

The fresh demand for low-yield issues was clearly seen in the United States Treasury section in which issues were up 2 to 4 1/2 points.

Treasury 3 1/2 at 108 1/2, up 1/2 point and closed at 109 1/2.

Corporate issues moving to new peak levels, included Santa Fe at 115 1/4 and Northern Pacific at 110. There were many others.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(P)—A bearish crop report by the government today caused but temporary weakness in the cotton market. While at the close the losses were 12 to 15 points lower the losses were much smaller than the trade expected.

The estimate by the crop reporting board was 12,400,000 bales, a figure about 500,000 bales above the 11,900,000 bales reported by the government. The estimate by the crop reporting board was 12,400,000 bales, a figure about 500,000 bales above the 11,900,000 bales reported by the government.

But when the market reopened after recess losses were held under a dollar and a half a rally and a momentary flurry of selling activity futures began a climb back toward the previous close, December finished at 11.82, after a decline of 12 points, and a final price of 11.75 for March reflected a 12-point decline and May was off a similar amount at 11.73.

The issuance of the government's analysis of the current year brought considerable activity into the market, but the buying side dominated deals. There was little attempt by speculative shorts to use the estimate as ammunition for bearish action, but the market met the government estimate with a further proof of the strong position of American cotton at present. With cotton prices at the world spinning the staple at new high levels of activity, cotton economists saw no reason why even a 13,000,000 bale crop of American cotton should bring a sharp recession in prices.

Feature of the government's report was the fact that every state growing cotton made a good crop progress in October, increasing the potential yield for the indicated production on October 1. Mississippi was given an indicated production of 1,900,000 bales, promising one of the best yields in the country. The Magnolia State from a financial standpoint. The Texas crop was placed at slightly over 3,000,000 bales, or nearly one-fourth of all the cotton grown in the United States this year.

N. Y. COTTON RECEDES ON N. S. CROP FORECAST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(P)—An increase of 700,000 bales in the government's November cotton crop indication to 12,400,000 bales caused cotton today to show net losses of slightly more than a half a cent, after a rally followed on trade buying. March declined from 11.95 to 11.65 and closed at 11.77 with the general market ending 9 to 13 points net lower.

After opening 4 points higher to 1 lower, prices rallied to net gains of 4 to 9 points on pre-bureau covering and rising ruling several points above Saturday's close when the market adjourned for the reception of the report. With the crop figure about 400,000 to 500,000 bales above the 11,900,000 bales reported by the government, prices declined 21 to 30 points from the highs and to net losses of 14 to 23 points under liquidation.

With trade buying quite active on the decline, a little underdone cotton appeared and final prices were about 10 to 12 points above the lows in the more active months. Favorable reports from the cotton goods market over the week end created hopefulness for a larger domestic consumption this season.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Despite a sharp increase in the government's estimate of cotton crop, the cotton goods market today was firm and active. The market was firm and active. The market was firm and active.
